

HOPKINS REJECTS GEORGIA SCHOOL FUND APPEAL; CONGRESSIONAL GROUP TO TAKE PLEA TO ROOSEVELT

POLICIES OFF F.D.R. BITTERLY PLAYED BY U.S. CHAMBER

Convention Reverses Own Resolution To Attack Government's Plans for Insurance for Poverty-Stricken Aged.

SIBLEY ELECTED HEAD OF U.S.C.O.F.C.

T. Guy Woolford, of Atlanta, Named One of New Vice Presidents of Trade Group.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—(AP)—A wholesale break with major policies of President Roosevelt's New Deal today closed a turbulent convention of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

American business, as represented by the chamber, displayed itself in a fighting, uncompromising mood toward what Mr. Roosevelt only Sunday described as "measures which provide for the rounding out of the program of economic and social reconstruction."

As attack piled on attack, individual business executives resorted to the precedent-breaking action of taking the convention floor to make directly critical resolutions even more drastic than proposed by committees.

So biting was the condemnation that even Harper Sibley, elected to the presidency today to succeed Henry I. Harman, conceded to newsmen that the "vigorous differences of opinion" between the administration and the chamber were "pretty crucial."

Climax of Attack.

Perhaps the climax of the surging antagonism came when the convention reversed its own resolutions committing an almost unwarmed-of procedure and attacked the government's plan to set up insurance for the poverty-stricken aged. The committee had recommended aid for this group, while proposing further study of other administration insurance schemes.

200 Reported Killed By Near East 'Quake'

ISTANBUL, May 2.—(UP)—Two hundred persons were killed and 500 injured seriously tonight when an earthquake destroyed 15 villages in the region of Kars—near Armenia.

The shocks were described as stronger than those of last June when quakes rocked the region around Smyrna.

Maps show a city of Kars near Turkish Armenia about 180 miles east of Trabzon, and 125 miles southwest of Tiflis. The province of Kars in the old Russian empire, was in southwest Transcaucasia, and had a population of more than 300,000—about half Mohammedans and one-fourth Armenians.

Thousands of panic-stricken people fled into the fields and mountains without food or shelter. Great fissures opened in the earth. Losses to crops and livestock were described as "appalling."

MANILA, Friday, May 3.—United States soldiers and Filipino troops guarded Manila from the threat of attack by radical uprising in the nearby provinces, led by natives demanding immediate independence for the Philippine islands.

At least 65 were reported killed and scores wounded in heavy fighting in the last 24 hours. The casualties included many youths and one woman.

A private in the Philippine constabulary named Hilario Topacio was fatally wounded. The capital was isolated by the insurgents who cut wire in all directions.

The town of Cabaño, in Laguna province, has been captured by Sakdalista insurgents, the Philippine constabulary was informed at 8 a. m. today.

From San Jose Del Monte, in Bulacnon province, came reports that 150 men were gathered near a Radio Corporation of America station there.

A political group known as the sakdalistas instigated the uprising. It was one of the most serious anti-American demonstrations in recent troubled months, spreading unrest in the islands.

The sakdalistas' "march on Manila" was frustrated last night by the warning of a loyal rural official and quick concentration of the Philippine constabulary.

Several members of the constabulary, bearing the brunt of the fighting against the insurgents, and 100 youths were brought into the general hospital at Manila, suffering gunshot wounds.

Other casualties may have taken place in Santa Rosa, in Laguna province.

PRESIDENT ORDERS RELIEF NEWS GAG

Bureau Chiefs Decline To Discuss Four Billion Spending Plans.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—(AP)—A tight gag on relief information was clamped on harassed government department heads today by President Roosevelt.

Bureau chiefs, button-holed at every step by the hundreds of state and local delegations seeking approval of projects, were declining officially—and sometimes gleefully—to discuss their projects for the $4,000,000,000 spend-

LUFBURROW SEES HUGE PINE SUPPLY

Forester Says.

Georgia can produce enough pine trees to supply the entire United States with newsprint and white paper, B. M. Lufburrow, state forester, said yesterday in analyzing possibilities of the wood pulp industry in the state.

Producing evidence showing that Georgia landowners are manifesting keen interest in growing trees, he said there are 20,000,000 acres of timber land capable of furnishing enough raw material for paper plants.

More than 7,000,000 acres of forest lands are under organized fire control in Georgia, he said, terming this a definite answer to the state's ability to supply the nation with paper.

"that it will only take from 12 to 15 years to grow pulpwood, that from one to three cords per acre per year can be grown, and that Georgia has more than 20,000,000 acres of forest

WASHINGTON, May 2.—(AP)—Re-tives of southern mills today joined New England interests in urging a substitute for the processing tax and restrictions of Japanese imports.

Sectional wage differentials, injected into the committee's hearings by New England textile men as part of their troubles, were defended strongly, however, on grounds more skilled workers were employed in northern plants and the south's living costs were lower.

The case for the southern mills was presented by a committee representing the American Cotton Manufacturers' Association, which at its Augusta, Ga., meeting asked a government inquiry into the textile problem.

MASS MEETING IN MERIWETHER FLAYS TALMADGE

Speakers at Manchester Gathering Score Governor For His Attack on President.

By W. A. RITCHIE,
Staff Correspondent.

MANCHESTER, N. H., May 2.— Citizens of Meriwether county, the Georgia home of President Roosevelt, in a mass meeting here tonight gave vent in no uncertain tones to their indignation caused by the attacks recently made on the president by Governor Eugene Talmadge, scored him for his reference to his physical condition and debated the advisability of sending the governor a telegram requesting him to return to Georgia after witnessing the races in Kentucky Saturday and "attend to your duties of governor, forgetting your republican affiliations."

After the matter was discussed it was decided not to send the wire to the governor.

Officers Named.

Officers named for the state club were W. E. Smith, Manchester, president; Dr. Neal Kitchens, of Warm Springs, J. Frank Hatchett, of Greenville, and Joseph Gay, of Gay, Ga., vice presidents; and Hoke Peters, of Manchester, secretary; Harvey Kennedy, of Barnstable, state organizer.

Officers of the Meriwether club include Rev. W. G. Harry, of Warm Springs, president; Ralph Williams, of Warm Springs, secretary, and Miss Carrie Johnson, of Manchester, vice president.

Dr. Neal Kitchens, one of the first speakers, said he felt like apologizing to J. J. Brown for helping to defeat him with Eugene Talmadge in 1926.

J. Frank Hatchett said Governor Talmadge had become "drunk with popularity and thought he was a second Huey Long. We know the president may have made mistakes but they were inevitable, the emergency was so great. It is our duty to stand by President Roosevelt because he has done more for the south than any other president. He may be weak in the knees, but Talmadge is weak in the head."

Hatchett said that the "Republicans are paying your democratic governor to fight your democratic party and democratic president, or else he is using money you paid in taxes for which he has not accounted for. We know that he is not able to do this himself." Hatchett had reference to the proposed nation-wide radio hook-up which he said would cost the governor $12,000 to use.

Judge H. H. Revell said the attack by Talmadge on President Roosevelt "is the most dastardly in the political history of the state. Governor Talmadge is a traitor to the democratic party, to his state, and to his country. Who is paying for this attempt to split the democratic party?"

Eight Arrested Here In 'Number' Offices

Five white men, two white women and a negro were taken last night by Fulton county deputy sheriffs who raided an alleged lottery headquarters at 156 Piedmont avenue in which a quantity of lottery equipment was confiscated.

Those arrested in the raid and charged with operating a lottery and who made $500 bonds before their names as Miss Elizabeth Brannan, 27, and Miss Ruth Bonner, 32, both of 372
Parkway drive, N. E.; Ira Ransom, 23, of a Forrest avenue address; H.
R. Gaston, 37, and Ernest Howard, 26, both of a Griffin street address;
E. L. Collins, 38, of a Parkway drive address; Roland Barnett, 25, of a Hollers street address, and the negro, Hudson Terrell, of 81 Horton street.

Deputy Sheriff P. N. Nelms and John Hopkins, who conducted the raid, stated that at the time the raid was made, the occupants of the office were busy tabulating the day's "sales." They stated they believed the offices to be the headquarters of a new company which recently had started operations here.

Goering Warns 'Foes' of Air Strength As France and Soviet Sign Alliance

Reich's Military Conscription Will Begin on October 1, General Reveals.

NATION DEMANDS LEAGUE'S APOLOGY

New Weapon To Make Germany Dangerous in Air, He Says.

BERLIN, May 2.—(AP)—General Hermann Wilhelm Goering, minister of air, today warned Europe Germany's air force "will always be as strong as any outside combination, for or against peace."

Disclosing simultaneously that the reich's military conscription would start October 1, the air minister, nazism's Benno Brummel, said:

"Germany now has an aerial weapon so powerful that whoever attacks us will have an exceedingly difficult time in the air."

In the first full statement of policy by any top-flight naz official since the League of Nations council last month indicted Germany for re-arming in violation of the Versailles treaty, Goering said the reich would not return to Geneva until the League apologizes for that action.

Hitler Statement Expected.

Earlier it became known Adolf Hitler, fuhrer of the reich and Goering's superior, was preparing an important announcement for the near future, probably to be delivered before an extraordinary session of the reichstag, which would cover the following points:

1. Germany's rearmament.
2. Her international policy.
3. Germany's proposals concerning restoration of colonies lost to her in the World War.
4. The possibility of the reich's return to the League.
5. The naz government's attitude toward the Versailles, Locarno, Rhineland zone and other existing or proposed facts.

KILLING OF DOWNS LAID TO 'ABUSES'

Locksmith's Son Denies

Mrs. Carter.

A story, sordid with details of
by his father, was recited in a sworn confession yesterday by Alvin A.
Downs, who was named in two true bills returned yesterday afternoon by the Fulton county grand jury charging him with murder in the slaying of his father, C. C. Downs, and Mrs.
Myrtle Carter, a bookkeeper in his father's Alabama street locksmith shop Wednesday afternoon.

Downs and Mrs. Carter were shot and killed shortly after 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Hundreds of homebound workers jammed Alabama street in front of the gun and kept their shop within a few minutes after the shooting. Alvin Downs admitted the shooting and made no attempt to leave the shop.

Downs, in his confession, told a story of hardships at the hands of his father, who he said deserted his mother four months before he was born.
His mother, he said, worked in an Augusta cotton mill to support him and his older brother.

When he was 15, he said in the confession, his father went to Augusta and got him and brought him to Atlanta and put him to work in his gun and locksmith shop, paying him

BRITAIN EXPANDS WAR AIR FORCES IN ARMS CONTEST

Parliamentary Factions Join Government's Determination To Build Corps Equal To Any.

LONDON, May 2.—Great Britain, pledging for an end to Europe's headlong armament race, today warned neighboring nations she means to keep her air force the equal of any.

A ringing assertion by Winston Churchill, fiery conservative, that German air superiority already existed featured debate following Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald's announcement that the government "already is taking steps" toward expanding British air strength.

Just what that expansion program involved MacDonald did not reveal, but informed sources said earlier the government stood ready to spend $25, 000,000 in addition to the $105,000,000 already provided in this year's air estimates.

(At Berlin, Air Minister Wilhelm Goering, announcing Germany would launch military conscription October 1, said Germany's air force would be the strongest in the world.)

VINSON BILL GAINS IN BONUS DEBATES

Long Avers F. D. R. Will Sign Patman Measure as "Politics."

WASHINGTON, May 2.—(AP)— Opening a three-cornered battle royal over the bonus, senate proponents of the inflationary Patman and compromise Harrison payments plans today waved arms and shouted words in favor of their proposals.

Behind the scenes, advocates of the middle-ground Vinson bill struck softer blows, with some observers estimating a swing in that direction. Hours more debate remained ahead, however, before a final test on the politically-poisonous issue.

Before crowded galleries, Chairman
Harrison, of the finance committee, opened the debate with a prediction President Roosevelt would sign his bill. The Mississippian contended his measure would cost a billion dollars less than the cash payment proposals.
Senator Long, democrat, Louisiana, was equally emphatic in his assertion the president would sign the Patman bill, passed by the house.

"The president ain't going to veto the Patman bill," he shouted, with arms waving. "Didn't I tell you last year he wouldn't veto the Frazier-Lemke bill, and he didn't."

"How did I know? Not from any word from the president. He seldom sends me any word. But I know be-

GOVERNOR BLAMED BY RELIEF CHIEF FOR NEWEST CRISIS

GROUP WILL TALK WITH WHITE HOUSE

Money To Pay Salaries of Teachers Prior to April 19 Needed, Officials Say Here.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Directing further criticism at Governor Talmadge for failure of the Georgia legislature to make more liberal provision for the state school system, Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins today told the Georgia congressional delegation he had gone as far as he intended to in providing relief funds for meeting unpaid salaries in state rural school teachers.

Calling at the relief administrator's office in a body, the 10 Georgia congressmen had asked Mr. Hopkins to make funds allotted the state schools system retroactive to February 1 instead of April 19, the date specified in instructions sent to Miss Gay B.
Shepperson, state relief administrator.

Subsequently at a regular press conference held this afternoon Administrator Hopkins, commenting on his conversations with the Georgia congressmen, told newspapermen responsibility for the situation as it has developed with respect to the state schools rested solely with the Georgia executive.

"Governor Talmadge," he said,
"just doesn't care whether the rural schools are kept open or not. The governor knows what to do and won't do it. Failure to pay Georgia school teachers rest squarely on his shoulders.
It is his responsibility and not ours and I am not going to take the responsibility. I so advised the congressional group."

Declaring that Georgia was one of 18 states to which federal relief funds had been allotted for maintaining rural schools, Mr. Hopkins said the state was the only one out of the 18 which has not done its share.

Boy, 11, Is 'Kidnaped', Bound, Left Hanging

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 2.—(AP) Emergency Officer Martin Stevens reported tonight that Aaron Hay, 11-year-old boy, was found this afternoon gagged and bound and hanging by a piece of wire in a garage a few blocks from his home here.

Stevens said a man named Donald McNees discovered the boy suspended in the garage.

The youth was taken to his home where he was reported suffering from shock and body bruises.

Officer Stevens reported the boy was "kidnaped" near his home about 8:15 this morning by two men who carried him a few blocks away. He said the child was gagged with wire, gagged him and left him hanging in the garage. He hung there, Stevens said, until mid-afternoon when McNees discovered him.

Mrs. Bergdoll Arrives in America To Ask F.D.R. to Pardon Husband

NEW YORK, May 2.—(AP)—Listed as a woman without a country, Mrs. Bergdoll arrived today to seek a presidential pardon for her draft-dodger husband.

Asserting he wanted to return to the United States and reclaim his $800,000 brewing fortune, which was seized by the government when he fled the country, Bergdoll's blond young wife said:

"His exile of 15 years seems to me to be penalty enough, if he has done wrong. He wants to come home."

As she stepped off the liner Washington with her four small children, Attorney-General Cummings declared in Washington that her husband would receive "no clemency from the department of justice."

Cummings said the question of clemency would be one for the war department and the president. Bergdoll, who was captured after a three-year evasion of the draft, was under a five-year military sentence when he escaped to Germany.

Mrs. Bergdoll's German citizenship was left in doubt when she married the fugitive Philadelphia during his exile.

She married Bergdoll after a casual street meeting.

She said today she hoped to go to Washington between May 10 and May 15 to seek an audience with President Roosevelt.

"He wants very much to be with his old mother," she said of her husband, adding that he spent much of his time reading books dealing with automotive and bridge building.

Asked why she was not content to remain in her native Germany, Mrs. Bergdoll said:

"Grover has never sought German citizenship. He is only anxious to come home, and where he goes we go too, and what place he makes home we make home too."

"Did he tell you of his status before you were married?" she was asked.

"Yes. . . . And after also," she replied. "Naturally he would. Am I not his wife?"

They have been living in Weinsberg, Wurtemberg, where the people know of Bergdoll's history but "do not make foreigners unhappy with talk and gossip," she said.

The city of Leningrad was founded by Peter the Great in 1703.

Bees Seize Auto Here; Hold 'Fort' Four Hours

Mrs. Joe King, of 1 Peachtree circle, and who recently moved to Atlanta from Tampa, Fla., had the unique experience of parking for four hours on Whitehall street yesterday afternoon and, thanks to a swarm of bees, did not receive a ticket.

Mrs. King, returning to her parked automobile from a shopping trip, was awed to find a curious throng of spectators grouped around her car and several men busily occupied "herding" the bees into a box.

Across the street, a pedestrian remarked to Mrs. King: "The fellow who owns that car must be a bootlegger." Another said: "Must be a sweet paint job on that new car."

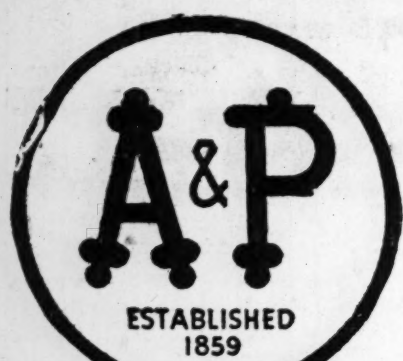

After the bees had been enticed into a box that contained some sugar, Mrs. King repossessed her car.

Officers Are Named For Land Campaign

Ralph Willner and M. Rich were elected co-chairmen of the committee which will conduct Atlanta's campaign to raise $4,000 for Palestine land redemption at the meeting held last night at the Henry Grady hotel.

Other prominent Atlantans who were elected to posts on the committee are Dr. Nathan Blass, A. Coker and Mrs. Sam Levy, vice chairman; Harry M. Wengrow, treasurer; Edward R. Valida, secretary.

Plans for the campaign to raise Atlanta's quota were outlined by Mr. Rich, who stated the campaign was Wash-day troubles vanish when I go to work!

WHY WORRY about laundry problems? I make "grayed" and "yellowed" white cottons and linens fast-colored and linens fast-colored cottons and linens. I remove stains, even scorch spots and mildew. As I work I disinfect valuable, especially for babies' white cottons and linens, diapers, rubber garments, bed protectors.

Clorox does more than solve laundry problems. As it cleans it kills germs and guards the "danger zones" in kitchen and bathroom. It makes refrigerators, coolers, drainboards, gar-

'Sage of Potato Hill' Nears 82 With Wish to Die After Day's Work

MIAMI, Fla., May 2.—(AP)—Ed Howe, the Kansas apostle of conservation, talked today of life and death.

The famed "Sage of Potato Hill" will be 82 tomorrow, and within three weeks he will undergo an operation for removal of cataracts from both eyes.

Howe does not fear the operation, but he understands insurance company mortality tables—"wonderfully accurate"—gives a man of his age a life expectancy of only three or four years longer.

So the veteran Atchison, Kans., editor and philosopher, Edgar Watson

Howe, calmly contemplates the future.

"My hope is to go to bed one night after a hard day's work and never awaken. That would be the absolute triumph."

He paused, reflected for a moment. "After all, a man must die some day. He ought to do it as amicably and as decently as possible."

"The doctors tell me that my physical condition is surprisingly good for a man of my age, but common sense doesn't indicate I'll live to be a hundred."

Howe has high hopes removal of the opaque film that blots printed page and faces of friends from his sight will enable him to resume the editor's uneasy chair, "for I have work to do."

He desires, chiefly, to pen "Final Conclusions," an article to which he has given much thought in the past year.

"People are to blame for everything," is the essence of Howe's final conclusions, with the sub-thought that "politics are immensely corrupt and must be reformed if the country is to get back to a sound basis."

He still is quite alarmed over the state of the nation—"the country has never gotten into such a mess"—but he is not talking as much about it now as he once did because "I'm only an old man with opinions of interest to no one."

"I'm an old reporter and could stand a revolution, I guess, for I've seen about everything else," said Howe, closing the subject.

Howe is glad to have lived in the United States during the last 81 years, "for I don't suppose there was ever a more wonderful age in the history of the world."

Leaving his winter apartment here Saturday, Howe and his niece, Miss Adelaide Howe, go first to Atchison and then, about May 15, to Johns Hopkins at Baltimore for the cataract operation.

DR. SHIMER TO SPEAK TO PHI BETA KAPPAS

Dr. William A. Shimer, secretary of the United Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa and editor of the American Scholar, will be the honor guest at a subscription dinner to be held at 7 o'clock Tuesday night, May 7, at the Atlanta Athletic Club, according to announcement of Dudley R. Cowles, president of the Georgia association.

Dr. Shimer will discuss the present plans and purposes of the national organization and will point out methods that the Atlanta chapter may adopt in becoming a more constructive force for scholarship in the community.

Condition of Agent Is Still Critical

Condition of Thomas A. Pruett, agent for the alcohol tax unit, shot Tuesday night while staging a raid near Conyers, remained extremely critical last night at St. Joseph's hospital, where he was taken following the shooting.

Meanwhile, J. Hudson Costley, Conyers storekeeper accused of the shooting, issued a statement yesterday saying he fired upon Pruett not knowing that the latter was a government agent. Arrangement of Costley and Robert Clark, negro, of Covington, and Lawson Baker, negro of Newton county, also held in the shooting, has been deferred until it is ascertained whether the federal agent will recover.

Costley told Sheriff P. Floyd Clark, of Rockdale county, to whom he surrendered after the shooting, that he was walking down the road near his grist mill Tuesday night when he met a man who demanded the keys to the mill. The man, he said, carried a pistol.

F. C. Crowe, another alcohol tax unit agent, said, however, that Baker delivered 40 gallons of liquor to the mill and that Costley and Clark were guarding it when Costley was shot.

Clark's shot went wild, but Costley struck Pruett in the right shoulder, some of the pellets penetrating his lung.

Anti-Repeal Body.

JASPER, Ga., May 2.—(AP)—A county-wide organization to fight repeal in the May 15 referendum has been organized here with Rev. J. W. Walker, a Baptist clergyman, as chairman, and Dr. H. G. Atherton, a physician, as secretary. Pickens has been dry, politically, for years.

COCKE IS NAMED STATE FEC HEAD

Appointment Is Made Under Instructions from White House.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Acting on instructions from the White House, Executive Director Frank Walker, of the National Emergency Council, today formally announced the appointment of Earl Cocke, of Macon, as state director for the NEC in Georgia.

The appointment of Mr. Cocke, who is present manager of the RFC agency in Atlanta, was made on recommendations filed last week by Senator Walter F. George and Senator Richard B. Russell Jr., of Georgia.

The post to which he has been named has been vacant since the death some months back of Dr. Andrew Soule, former head of the State Agricultural College at Athens. In announcing the Macon man's selection to the vacancy, NEC officials failed to throw any light on the part he is to play in the new $4,000,000,000 works program as applied to Georgia. The fact that President Roosevelt designated Mr. Walker, head of the agency, as one of three main administrative groups in connection with the huge program has prompted the assumption the state NEC director will play a leading part in the Georgia set-up. It has been suggested that all Georgia applications for approval of public works projects will be cleared by Mr. Cocke.

In accepting the new office, however, he will not be required to relinquish his management of the Atlanta RFC agency. The work of the agency has dropped off somewhat in the past year and officials have determined that it will be possible for him to run both offices, receiving only one salary, of course.

The exact situation with respect to administration of the four billion dollar program in Georgia is expected to be set forth in some announcement scheduled to come from federal officials here within the next few days. Informed that dispatches from Washington told of his appointment, Mr. Cocke said last night that he had not been officially notified of the appointment and did not know the proposed scope of his authority in dealing with public works projects in Georgia.

UNITY NEED SEEN IN RAIL RATE FIGHT

Wilhoit Says South Could Get New Structure If Efforts Are Joined.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—(AP)—A convention was voiced today by Jud P. Wilhoit, Georgia public service commissioner, that if the south united in a drive to remove "discriminations" in rail freight rates, a new rate structure could be obtained for Dixie.

Wilhoit appeared before the Interstate Commerce Commission to defend Georgia's 18 per cent reduction interstate tariffs. An ICC examiner has recommended that this rate cut be voided.

Upon leaving the commission hearing, the Georgian gave a statement as follows:

"If commissions of the other southern states would wake up and act in conjunction with the Georgia commission, in an application to the ICC to review the southern rate scale in the light of existing financial, economic and transportation conditions which are entirely different from conditions 10 years ago when the present southern class rates were prescribed, we could present a case that would bring about a change in the rate of structure that would relieve southern industry of discriminatory rates and increase the tonnage and revenue of the southern carriers."

"At the time the present southern class rates were prescribed in 1926, the cost of performing the service in the south was not before the commission, and the information which is now available as to the cost of rendering the service in the southern territory with its high rates, as compared with the cost of rendering the same service in northern territory with its low rates, would present facts to the commission which it could not disregard."

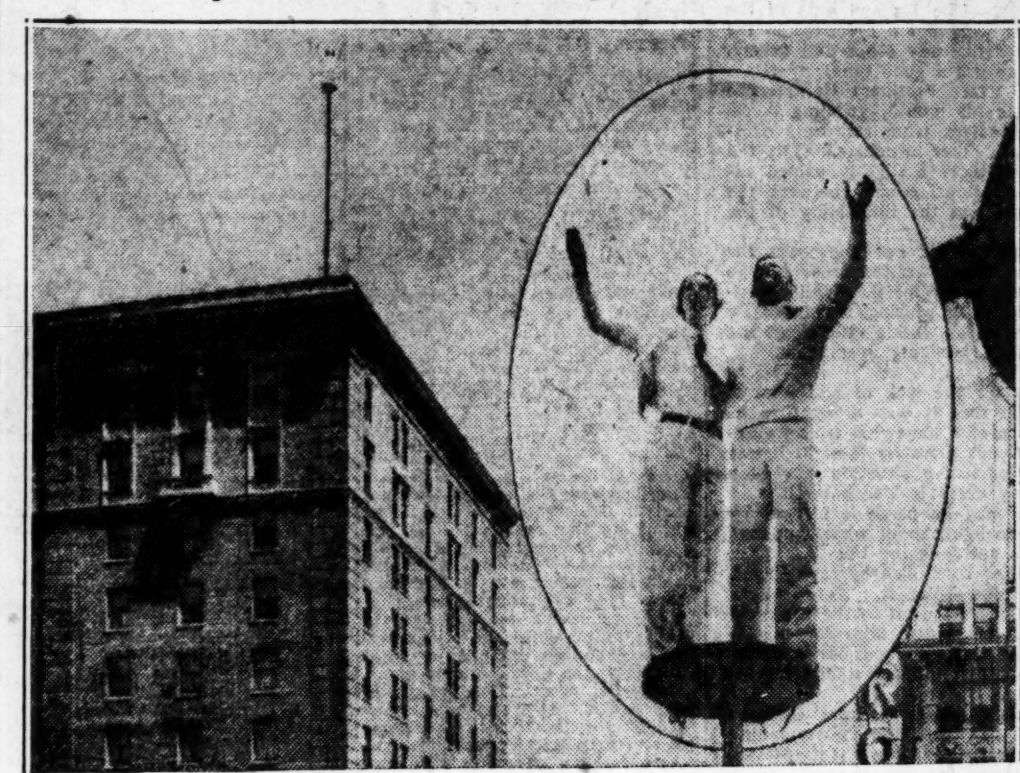

Earlier Wilhoit told the commission that if it gave the south "the opportunity which it rightfully deserves, a new frontier will open for development."

The Georgia carriers were represented by Charles Clark, attorney, who contended the low interstate rates in Georgia discriminated against shippers in neighboring states, and thus were in violation of the interstate commerce act.

Wilhoit, however, took the position that instead of raising the Georgia tariffs to the old level, the rates in other southern states should be adjusted to the Georgia scale.

Figures were presented to show that class rates in the east were 37 per

Betty, Benny Fox Keep Rigorous Schedule In Preparation for 'Sky-Dance' Thursday

This picture of Betty and Benny, taken in Seattle, Wash., shows how they will defy the high winds of the upper air and the old law of gravity in their six-hour sky dance atop an Atlanta office building next Thursday afternoon, May 9.

Atlanta's next Thursday will witness what is declared one of the most amazing, death-defying stunts evolved by adventurous humans in many years—Betty and Benny Fox's "sky-dance"—to be performed atop a downtown office building under the sponsorship of The Constitution.

RHODES WILL OPEN GAINESVILLE STORE

Establishment of a Rhodes store in Gainesville, Ga., within the next two weeks was announced yesterday by A. G. Rhodes, president of the company and grandson of the late A. G. Rhodes, founder of the organization which has become south-wide in scale.

The new establishment will occupy the two-story building at 5 North Square and will be operated by J. S. Johnson, prominent Atlanta furniture man as resident manager under the direction of J. W. Johnson, manager of the Atlanta store. It will serve as the Gainesville branch of the famous Rhodes-Wood Furniture Company at Whitehall and Mitchell streets here.

A complete representation of the stock carried at the Atlanta store will likewise be handled in Gainesville, it was announced. The new establishment will be the 28th in the south-wide system as developed since the late A. G. Rhodes came to Atlanta in 1874 from Henderson, Ky., to open his first small establishment.

It was early established as a policy of the company to follow establishment of a store with investments in real estate in the community. The Rhodes name has long been identified with philanthropy and civic service in all communities served by the organization and in Atlanta there are many monuments to his public spirit. Among these are the Rhodes Memorial hall used as department of archives of the state and located on Peachtree street; the A. G. Rhodes Home for Invalids, 300 Boulevard, S. E.; the Home for Old Women at 891 West End avenue, and the Peachtree Christian church.

The store system pioneered the time payment plan as applied to furniture and was one of the first to apply the savings effected by carload purchases to reduced prices.

MISSIONARY RALLY TO OPEN HERE TODAY

The third annual missionary rally of the Atlanta Bible Institute will begin at 11 o'clock today in the institute building at 523 Peachtree street and will continue through Sunday night with daily meetings at 11 o'clock in the morning and 7:30 o'clock at night.

Mrs. W. C. Townsend, a missionary to Central America for the past 15 years, will be a featured speaker. She is noted for her translation of the Bible into the difficult language of the Indians of the section she serves.

A feature of the program will be the attendance of members of the "Westervelt family." Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Westervelt, returned to the United States a number of years ago to permit their son to receive an education in this country. They found that other missionaries in foreign fields had considerable difficulty in securing American educations for their children and immediately set up "open house" for the children of foreign missionaries.

Benny and Betty are already in Atlanta and in training. They are working as hard to prepare themselves for the perilous, muscle-racking performance next week as professional fighters do before a championship battle. A regular routine of work, rope skipping, balancing and dancing, is followed to give them the endurance and the perfect balance that their "sky-dance" demands. For six hours next Thursday they will dance atop a platform just 24 inches in diameter, set on top of a slim pole which will extend more than 50 feet above the roof of a high building.

DR. CHILDS QUILTS SEAT IN COUNCIL

J. Allen Couch Seen as Successor to Fifth Ward Official.

Dr. C. W. Childs, fifth ward councilman, yesterday announced he will retire immediately from city council and move with his family to the country for the health of his young daughter.

Preliminary conferences indicated that former Mayor Pro Tem, J. Allen Couch may be the choice of the delegation to succeed Dr. Childs when the resignation is filed, probably at next Monday's meeting.

It was pointed out that Couch was the choice of the people of the ward several times, and he carried the fifth ward in the last race for alderman although he was defeated for the nomination by a small margin.

City council will have three vacancies to fill including the fifth ward councilman post within the next few weeks.

Alderman J. Sid Tiller, third ward, has accepted a position on the staff of Solicitor-General John A. Boykin, and his successor must be selected. Tiller's resignation is anticipated at Monday's session.

Councilman Joseph E. Berman, fourth ward, has announced he will retire and move to Mississippi. He will return to Atlanta from an out-of-town visit Saturday, and it was reported yesterday that former Alderman Claude L. Ashley probably will be selected to succeed him. Mayor Key and other strong administration supporters are backing Ashley, although some opposition has developed.

Councilmen G. Dan Bridges and C. W. Hester, third ward, have not yet settled on Tiller's successor.

Presentation of awards for outstanding merit of units and individuals will follow the drills and in the concluding ceremony to regiment will be turned over to members of the junior class and will pass in review before the cadet officers of the senior class and the sponsors.

The Saturday morning session will convene at 9 o'clock and the subject will be urban housing, with the chairman, Reginald S. Fleet. The speakers will be Colonel Horatio B. Hackett, Colonel Roger D. Black, B. M. Pettit and William J. Sayward. Adjournment will be at noon and the afternoon session, which begins at 1 o'clock, will be addressed by F. D. Burge on "The Evolution of Tech-wood."

Public Parks Gaming Is Charged in Petition

Alleging that "black-jack," "craps" and "shoot at the line" constitute a part of the sport engaged in on the Howell Park tennis courts, T. D. Fortson filed a suit in superior court yesterday asking that operation of the courts be enjoined. Judge John D. Humphries set a hearing for May 11, but no temporary restraining order was granted. The suit was brought against the city of Atlanta and George I. Simons, superintendent of parks. The petitioner sets forth that his wife's health has been endangered by the constant noise including "vile language," of the players, and protests also at the playing of football and use of the courts as a "race track for bicycles" in the fall. Fortson also asks $200 damages.

Speech by Talmadge On Air Tuesday Night

Governor Eugene Talmadge's air attack on the Roosevelt administration was postponed yesterday to Tuesday, May 7, at 10 p. m. (eastern standard time) and the governor said he liked that better.

Originally his speech was scheduled for Monday night.

The Georgia chief executive spent several hours today writing his speech, which is to be broadcast from Washington, the nest of the administration he is fighting, over a coast-to-coast hookup. It will mark the beginning of his official campaign against New Deal policies.

He read the 30-minute speech, which uses "Americans Wake Up" as its title, held a series of conferences in his office today, then went to the executive mansion to prepare for his departure from Atlanta tonight.

Keeping the time and manner of his departure a secret, Talmadge said he would witness the Derby at Louisville, Ky., Saturday and proceed to Washington Sunday.

He would not discuss the nature of his speech, which is a continuation of his attacks on the AAA, NRA, PWA, processing taxes, relief and other phases of the New Deal.

After the broadcast, the man who predicted a third party in the 1936 general election will take the stump in various sections of the country in his anti-Roosevelt fight.

Showers Forecast For Atlanta Today

Showers accompanied by cooler weather in the afternoon are on the weather program for today, according to George W. Mindling, meteorologist here.

"The storm which has resulted in dust clouds in the west and rains in the Mississippi valley will reach here some time today, probably in the morning, bringing with it the showers without the dust," the forecaster said.

The mercury will reach a high of 80 degrees today as compared to 85 yesterday, and a low of 62 today as against a low of 68 yesterday, the weatherman said.

THREE CONVICTS FLEE FROM FULTON CAMPS

Three convicts escaped from Fulton camps yesterday, and county police and bloodhounds scoured the north and south ends of the county. None of the convicts had been captured early last night.

Maurice Green, serving a 34 months' misdemeanor sentence, escaped from a gang working on Nancy's creek bridge yesterday morning, and county police found his convict clothing in a near-by wood.

J. E. Powell, another misdemeanor prisoner, and another convict not identified but known as "Johnnie," walked away from the county farm yesterday afternoon. They were stationed at River camp.

Low Cost Housing Parley To Open in Atlanta Today

The heads of all four of the federal government's departments dealing with housing problems will be in Atlanta today for a two-day conference on low cost housing with headquarters established at the Biltmore hotel. The sessions are being held under the auspices of the department of agriculture, Georgia Tech and the University System of Georgia.

"No more tired, let-down feeling for me"

"I reasoned that my red blood corpuscle strength was low and I simply took a course of S.S.S. Tonic and built it back."

IT is all so simple and reasonable. If your physical let-down is caused by lowered red blood corpuscles—which is all too frequent—then S.S.S. Tonic is waiting to help you... and will, unless you have a serious organic trouble that demands a physician or surgeon.

Remember, S.S.S. is not just a so-called "tonic." It is a tonic specially designed to stimulate gastric secretions, and also has the mineral elements so very, very necessary in rebuilding the oxygen-carrying red corpuscles in the blood.

This two-fold purpose is important. Digestion is improved... food is better utilized... and thus you are enabled to better "carry on" without exhaustion—as you should naturally.

You may have the will-power to be "up and doing" but unless your blood is in top notch form you are not fully yourself and you may remark, "I wonder why I tire so easily."

Let S.S.S. help build back your blood tone... if your case is not exceptional, you should soon enjoy again the satisfaction of appetizing food... sound sleep... steady nerves... a good complexion... and renewed strength.

S.S.S. is sold by all drug stores in two sizes. The 82 economy size is twice as large as the $1.25 regular size and is sufficient for two weeks treatment. Begin on the upward today.

U. S. EXAMINATION OF ALCOHOL AGENTS ORDERED DELAYED

Re-examination of 900 agents of the alcohol tax unit who flunked examinations last September and have been serving since without pay, has been indefinitely postponed. It was said yesterday by R. E. Tuttle, district supervisor of the alcohol tax unit.

The agents had been scheduled to take another examination today but Mr. Tuttle said telegraphic instructions from Washington yesterday recalled the order. A bill now is pending in congress which would require non-competitive examinations for those who failed last September. This bill, by Senator Byrnes, of South Carolina, requires that the agents stand examination again prior to May 15.

Seventy-nine agents of the unit in South Carolina, Florida, Alabama and Georgia who failed in the test have been serving without pay. The examination required agents to answer 80 questions in 75 minutes. Twelve of the problems were mathematical twisters. The others included the following:

"Tomorrow is yesterday as subsequent is to (1) following; (2) consecutive; (3) previous; (4) future; (5) secondary.

"Fermentation is to wine as rectification is to (1) distillation; (2) spirits; (3) adulterants; (4) grain; (5) only 28 agents in the four states in this region passed the test. All of the 900 who flunked previously had passed civil service examinations.

THE TITHE OF DEVIL'S BREW

Suddenly and without warning a son shoots his father dead in an Atlanta shop, and then turns his smoking pistol on a woman employee, dealing instant death to a mother who leaves a small daughter.

Standing in the midst of the shambles he has created, the killer can remember nothing of what has happened.

Whisky?

Illicit liquor—a veritable devil's brew—had again taken its toll in the destruction of two homes, for the man who had slain his father and killed a mother was, according to the police, "crazy drunk."

Not only the son who did the shooting, but others involved, were heavily under the influence of liquor—some of the 100,000 gallons of the poisonous freshly brewed concoctions federal agents report are sold in Atlanta every year.

These are the devil's brews which

Sam Jones said would "make a rabbit spit in the face of a bulldog."

And yet federal records show that 4,500,000 gallons of this liquor that inflames and destroys the mind and the body is manufactured and consumed in Georgia every year, and that it can be bought day and night at every crossroads of the state.

In every bottle and can lurk the makings of murder, violence and frenzy.

No wonder that even such tragic affairs as this shooting are not isolated occurrences but that every day, everywhere, newspaper columns are filled with similar reports.

The wonder is that there are not more of these tragedies in a city in which in a single year there have been more than 17,000 arrests for drunkenness, and another 23,000 cases made in which liquor has been involved—in a state in which so-called "bone-dry" prohibition laws are on the statute books.

Georgia has an opportunity in the referendum of May 15 to go on the same basis of other states throughout the Union which have repealed these laws that have been breeders of crime and instigators of violence.

They have brought to Georgia a huge traffic in poisonous concoctions—uncontrolled, unregulated and untaxed—such as the state has never known before.

Under repeal each county will be free to choose whether it shall by Alaskan homesteads. They understand the dust storms up there contain gold.

Our postoffice under the genial

Mr. Farley is overlooking no bet.

If it seizes enough sweepstakes tickets it is almost certain to cop a winner.

WHY NOT COME SOUTH?

Within a few days the Matanuska valley, north of the port of Anchorage, in Alaska, will receive the vanguard of 200 families from the drouth areas of the west, selected by the government as the nucleus of an agricultural colony in this northern area only a short distance from the frigid arctic circle.

The new colony, created on an 8,000-acre tract withdrawn from the public domain, is designed to aid in the movement of farmers from unprofitable lands in the west.

The plans contemplate the construction not only of houses capable of resisting the biting cold of Alaskan winters, but a community cold storage plant, a schoolhouse and highways.

Why not the south as the new home of these farmers who have been waging a losing battle with unprofitable farm land?

For six to eight months of the year they will be, in Alaska, under a blanket of snow and ice, with little or no communication with the outside world, and even the most modern scientific aids will not prevent the struggle for existence being difficult and hard.

At far less expense for equipment and maintenance, these families could be transplanted to the fertile valleys and rich plains of the south, where they would find no extremes of either heat or cold, normal rainfall, no dust storms nor any other major handicaps to profitable endeavor and pleasant living conditions.

There are millions of acres of idle farm lands in the south on which, during long growing seasons, practically every type of fruit, vegetable and feed crop can be produced, and on which great herds of livestock can roam.

These lands offer untold opportunities to the farmers of the drouth-stricken areas.

The opportunities that caused

Horace Greely to advise "Go west, young man," were not as great as those now existing in the south, not only for hardy young men but for the young and the old as well.

OLD WOUNDS ARE GONE

An unusual indication of the extent to which the wounds arising out of the War Between the States have disappeared is to be found in the unveiling recently in the historic St. John's Episcopal church at Fort Hamilton, on Long Island in

New York bay, of a tablet in memory of General "Stonewall" Jackson.

The impressive ceremonies included not only the unveiling of the Jackson tablet but of a plate on the old font at which he was baptized—a relic of pre-Revolutionary days—and of a tablet marking a young tree set out to replace one set out by General Robert E. Lee.

The placing of the tablets was fostered by the United Daughters of the Confederacy and taking part in the exercises were high digni-taries of the church and officers of the army.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Civilization At Stake

General Jan Christian Smuts, the great statesman, who stands head and shoulders above the local South African political movements and is really a world-figure and one of the world's outstanding liberals, has given a review of the situation in Europe which merits attention. Vast experiences in government, he said, were now being tried in Russia, Italy,

Germany and elsewhere. All had one feature in common and that was their denial of political or constitutional liberty as a principle. The entire and immense force at the disposal of a modern state was now being used to crush the principle of personal freedom and substitute for it a subservient mass mentality. He dared not conceal his deep conviction that in these grave developments

they saw, not a new life for the world, but rather decay; not the enrichment of European tradition, but impoverishment, the negation of the finest and noblest insights of the human spirit, and a falling back rather than advance in the great cause of civilization.

Man as a personality was destined to be a free citizen in a free world, not an ant in some human terrarium.

His own belief, based on his reading of history, was that these new movements were temporary and passing, that they were born of the neurosis of war misery and defeatism, and that in Europe they would tend to disappear. But, if they did not, and they were going to be permanent features of our European society, then he foresaw a very stormy era in the world and a political and economic backlash which might cost Europe the leadership which she for so long had enjoyed.

For the present, however, these deep-going differences need not prevent co-operation between the peace-loving nations in the League or elsewhere for common human interests.

Asiatic Problem

Whilst Europe was still further distracted by this conflict of fundamental ideas, sleeping Asia was awakening. The Asiatic problem, the human race was on the move, no one knew whither. At the head of this movement was a great power which already claimed naval equality with the two greatest sea powers in the world. We were here face to face with one of the major developments in history. By the side of this fateful nation, the troubled Europe were intrinsically more like a family squabbles in comparison. With the policy on which Japan was now embarked there was serious risk that the Pacific would become a potential danger spot of the world on a colossal scale. Japan, Russia, China,

the United States, Britain, Canada,

Australia, New Zealand, India, might all become involved. A complete new situation was thus arising in the world, and some countries which had hitherto felt most secure in their isolation and peace, were now well within the range of the new dangers.

Goodwill To Japan

Japan's situation called for a large measure of patience and goodwill.

Her war-worn people were not only in Japan but also over Asia on points of honor and prestige which called for a double dose of charity

on the part of Europe and America.

But they had to face the possibility

NRA TEST BEGINS IN HIGHEST COURT

Stanley Reed Fires New Deal's First Gun as Resolution Is Passed 13-4.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—(AP)—The fluttered feathers of the Blue Eagle flapped nervously above two capitol battlefields today in a war over its future.

In the supreme court, crowded to capacity, Solicitor-General Stanley Reed began oral arguments on a poultry market case from New York chosen by the government for a constitutional test of basic NRA principles.

A few days away in the senate finance committee room, administration leaders huddled from two sides to their proposal to continue the present law—with some modifications—until April.

After turning down several amendments, however, the committee voted, 13 to 4, to report its compromise resolution extending the act, but with price-fixing eliminated except to mineral natural resource industries and with intrastate business exempt from codes.

The right of the government to regulate intrastate business was one of the major issues before the supreme court.

Reed contended that practices of the New York poultry trade, including wages and hours paid to labor, directly affected interstate commerce. He argued that the metropolitan poultry market governed prices throughout the nation, and that labor cost of slaughter houses had a direct bearing on such prices.

Bill "Termed" Death Blow. Meanwhile, one group of senators, including Walsh, democrat, Massachusetts, and Barkley, democrat, Kentucky, with the backing of NRA administrators, called the provisions of the extension resolution eliminating regulation of intrastate business "a death blow to the whole NRA."

"If this provision is retained," Walsh said, "it will break up the administration of the NRA more quickly and more completely than anything I can conceive of. It would be far better to repeal the whole law."

On the other hand, Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, bitter critic of some NRA policies, said:

"I am not bound by the resolution. I don't know what I will do, but I never saw it until it was reported by the committee."

Borah would not discuss his objections, but it was reported that he felt the resolution as drawn permitted too much price fixing.

Amendments Rejected. Before reporting the resolution, the finance committee rejected these amendments:

By Couzens, republican, Michigan—to forbid production control (without a record vote).

By Black, democrat, Alabama—to eliminate all price fixing even in mineral natural resources (13 to 4).

By Black—to limit profits and salaries when price-fixing permitted (14 to 1).

By Barkley—to permit codes for intrastate business "of such character and dimensions as materially and substantially to affect" interstate commerce (14 to 1).

By Costigan, democrat, Colorado—to extend the act until April 1, 1937, (without a record vote).

The 13 to 4 vote reporting the resolution showed the following line-up:

For—Harrison, George, Walsh, Bailey, Clark, Clegg, Coker, Guffey, and Guffey, democrats; Couzens, Keyes, Metcalf, Hastings and Capper, republicans.

Against—Barkley, Costigan and Black, democrats; La Follette, progressive.

Shortly after the finance committee reported the NRA resolution, the labor committee filed its favorable report on the Wagner labor disputes bill.

'Boy Wizard' Cleared In Crash of 'Mo-Kan'

SIREN USED TO STOP SHARE WEALTH SPEECH

HELENA, Ga., May 2.—Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, representing Huey Long, and his share-wealth plan, came here this afternoon to speak on the streets of Helena but was not allowed to do so. TRADES NEEDS CITED BY REV. B. R. HOLMES

GRIFFIN, Ga., May 2.—There is not enough stress being placed upon vocational training in the public and high schools of the state for colored youth, declared Rev. B. R. Holmes, president of the Holmes Institute, at Atlanta, in a speech here.

The south is in need of more efficient farmers, carpenters, brick masons, tailors, cooks, laundresses, blacksmiths and printers, he said.

No student should be allowed to graduate from the public schools without knowing some useful trade aside from the regular course, continued Rev. Holmes who is delivering a series of addresses to the students of Cabin Creek vocational high schools, and citizens of Griffin in St. Philip's A. M. E. church.

Farm Boys May Now Pay Tuition In Produce at State Ag College

ATHENS, Ga., May 2.—(AP)—A "New Deal" for farm boys anxious to get university training was announced here today by President S. V. Sanford, of the University of Georgia, who said that farm boys could now attend the university's college of agriculture for less than $200 a year—and pay that in farm products.

Speaking at the annual livestock-legend day exercises at the college, President Sanford said also that the University Board of Regents had authorized a scholarship plan as a further aid to the education of farm youth.

Tuition Arranged. Under a recent resolution of the regents, Dr. Sanford said, provision was made that "fees and tuition, as well as room and board, may be paid with farm products. Under this plan, many ambitious boys will be in position to enter the college of agriculture next fall. They will be boys to whom this privilege would otherwise be denied."

The resolution also provides that there will be a reduction of $60 a year in fees for members of the freshman and sophomore classes in the agriculture or agricultural engineering.

"In carrying out provisions of these resolutions, we have adopted a scholarship plan through which we expect to be of service to a very large number of ambitious boys."

This scholarship plan is being handled by Dean Paul W. Chapman of the college of agriculture here. We are making special effort through scholarship applications to get in touch with farm boys who wish to make agriculture or agricultural engineering their life's work. We are seeking to aid boys who have demonstrated their love for farming, as well as their leadership ability through affiliation with the 4-H Clubs and vocational agriculture departments of rural high schools.

"Any farm boy in Georgia who can meet the entrance requirements of the university may apply for this privilege by writing to Dean Chapman for a scholarship application blank and return."

R. P. Burson, of Monroe, farmer-member of the board of regents who introduced the resolution discussed by Dr. Sanford, said "since Georgia is an agricultural state such steps are just the things we need."

President Sanford said in addition to reducing fees, the regents fixed the board of board and room at Camp Wilkins, a dormitory operated by the agricultural college at $15 a month or $135 for a nine-month school year.

Dean Chapman welcomed the farmers and farm boys, and county farm agents and agricultural teachers here for the day's events. The visitors included a dog and pony show in the afternoon, and the "little international" livestock show, staged by the college students, tonight. Both shows are sponsored by the Saddle and Saddle Club, a student animal husbandry organization at the college.

Various demonstrations and exhibits were staged today for the benefit of the visitors, to show benefits of legume planting, and other modern farming methods.

Masterful Rendition of 'Elijah' Given by High School Pupils

The second concert in the fourth annual music festival of the Atlanta public schools was presented by a chorus of 700 high school pupils under the direction of Lawrence G. Nelson, director of music in the schools, Thursday evening in the city auditorium.

"Elijah," Mendelssohn's sacred oratorio, and this huge aggregation of music-loving boys and girls gave a masterful rendition of the work. It was hard to believe beforehand that such young singers would be able to do the work with such a measure of greatness, but in this case, "hearing" is believing, for their entire performance was truly a work of art.

Edna L. Whitmore at the piano, and Charles A. Sheldon Jr. at the organ, provided fine support in the accompaniment.

The different units of the chorus were trained in their respective high or junior high schools by the following teachers: Mable Boyter, Haskell Center, Crosby, Campbell, DeBrynn Kops, Ruby Langford, Annie Grace O'Callaghan, Charles Patterson, J. D. Shackelford, H. A. Taylor and Edna Whitmore.

S. C. HOUSE APPROVES RUM TAX SCHOOL AID

COLUMBIA, S. C., May 2.—(AP)—A definite policy of using the major portion of liquor revenue to finance an expanded state school program was laid down by the house today in approving a sweeping education bill.

A liquor sales bill was recently enacted into law.

Final Lineup. The bill passed on second reading, would finance an extra month of school and raise teachers' pay from $66 to $75 a month by allocating 75 per cent of liquor, beer and wine revenue to education.

Provisions for raising teachers' pay 15 per cent and extending the state aid school term from six to seven months were approved by a vote of 102 to 6 for the bill. A senate bill for a rental textbook system was next in line.

Senate sentiment against further delay in legislation meanwhile found vent at a long executive session called by the governor to discuss the bill.

With liquor and appropriation free conference working toward a correlated program that would finance schools, leaders said prospects of adjournment sine die next week-end or the week after had improved.

N. C. VOTES AN END TO LIQUOR CONSIDERATION

RALEIGH, N. C., May 2.—(AP)—Efforts to modify North Carolina's stringent laws against liquor met defeat today when the senate rejected a local option bill, 27 to 22, and then applied the parliamentary clincher, preventing reconsideration except by a two-thirds vote.

With the session of the legislature nearing an end, members indicated their attempt to authorize the sale of alcoholic beverages, other than beer which was legalized last year.

FREE SYSTEM ABOLITION APPROVED IN FLORIDA

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., May 2.—(AP)—The house today approved a proposed constitutional amendment to permit abolition of the fee system of compensation for county officials. The measure, aimed chiefly at the fee system, would allow legislators to fix salaries of officials in their counties by passage of local bills. It was approved, 62 to 19.

If ratified, the amendment will permit legislators to put officers on a salary basis or retain the fee system and to increase or decrease compensation.

The constitution now prohibits a change in salaries except by general law.

The senate approved another constitutional amendment designed to lighten real estate taxation. The proposal would prohibit state property taxes except the one-mill levy required by the constitution for schools.

The resolution now goes to the house.

The mayor said, "When Smith started to speak, the sheriff for some reason drove up to the sound truck and began blowing his automobile horn, to drown out the speech."

GEORGIAN TERMS FDIC GREAT RECOVERY STEP

By WASHINGTON, May 2.—Representative Paul Brown, of Elberton, told his house colleagues today that insurance of bank deposits by the federal government would pave the way to recovery than any other act of the New Deal.

In an extended speech on the floor of the lower chamber, Mr. Brown, a member of the important committee on banking and currency, reminded his fellow representatives that he was the first southerner to propose the insurance of deposits as a national policy.

"Bank deposit insurance," he said, "is legislation aimed to benefit all the people. When the New Deal came into being, it was not the answer to a mere two or three-year condition. It was the result of more than a decade of gradual slipping away from confidence in the business facilities of our country. Throughout that period which our republican friends were denigrating as the most prosperous times America ever had enjoyed, our banks were steadily storing their resources towards failure. Their depositors were encouraged by the word 'national' in their names, and 'member of the Federal Reserve' on their windows. But there was no definite security for their funds."

"And may I remind you, Mr. Chairman, that during this time—the years of Coolidge, Hoover and Mellon—banks were actually failing and depositors were losing their savings. They were not losing their savings, they were steadily storing their resources towards failure. Their depositors were encouraged by the word 'national' in their names, and 'member of the Federal Reserve' on their windows. But there was no definite security for their funds."

JACKSON, Miss., May 2.—(AP)—Jackson's oldest fireman, Captain Paul Doran, 82, who has spent 61 years in the service, was retired tonight.

During his 61 years of active duty, Captain Doran has "smelled plenty of smoke," he says. He was a member of the first volunteer fire company ever organized in Jackson, and drove "a pair of big bay horses" to the first steam pumper ever seen in Mississippi. Despite his advancing age, he is still active, and "at work" 12 hours a day. During the past two years, he has been a regular fire inspector, but the doughy old firefighter says he can "still man a hose with the best of 'em."

Girl, 7, Still Sleeps After Tornado's Antic

JACKSONVILLE, Ind., May 2.—(AP)—A tornado that left 75 persons homeless, blew 7-year-old Frona Gentry out of her bedroom today and into the street, but failed to disturb her sleep.

The home of her father, Olaf Gentry, was destroyed. Rescuers found the lifeless body of Frona's pet poodle 100 yards away and had nearly given up hope of finding the girl alive when they noticed her bed in the street.

They unfolded it, and inside was Frona, rolled up in the mattress, still sleeping. After a physician determined she was unhurt, the girl resumed her nap at the home of a neighbor.

"David Copperfield" Back Again at Grand

Loew's Grand theater is bringing back two screen masterpieces of recent months for return engagements. Starting a three-day run today is "David Copperfield," perhaps this year's most famous screen production to date, and starting a four-day run next Monday is "The Thin Man," screen adaptation of Dashiell Hammett's famous best seller among mystery stories.

Charles Dickens' great novel was screened only after great research and the efforts of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer made a special trip to England for appropriate backgrounds and to select types for the famous Dickens characters. Hugh Walpole, eminent modern novelist, and an authority on Dickens, was brought back to America to supervise the dramatization of the novel.

Freddie Bartholomew was chosen to impersonate the young hero. Today Freddie is probably the outstanding 10-year-old actor in the world. Others in the cast are W. C. Fields (as Macawber), Elizabeth Allan, Maureen O'Sullivan, Madge Evans, Roland Young, Elsa Lancaster, Basil Rathbone, etc.

Myrna Loy and William Powell head the cast of "The Thin Man," and their performance is hailed as the finest ever given on the screen. Under direction of W. S. Van Dyke, who made "Naughty Marietta," and "The Great Dictator," the picture is a hattering, skillful, and altogether memorable entertainment.

"Party Wire" at Rialto Starring Jean Arthur

"Party Wire," Columbia's latest production, opens a week's engagement at the Rialto theater tomorrow. It is a story of a rural American town and is filled with real humor, a touch of tragedy and a romance as delightful as any ever told on screen or printed page.

Jean Arthur, the girl who won the hearts of all movie fans when she played so cleverly opposite Edward G. Robinson in "The Whole Town's Talking," has the leading feminine role while the masculine lead is in the capable hands of Victor Jory. The picture was directed by Erle Kenton.

The story gets its name from the telephone system of the small town, with its "party" lines leading itself perfectly to the dissemination of gossip and the breeding of that worst fungus on human society, scandal. How a misunderstood sentence almost wrecks the heroine's life and actually drives her father to suicide, is the outline of the lesson the picture teaches again and again of malicious gossip. And the romance comes to happy culmination that pleases every audience fortunate enough to enjoy this splendid piece of entertainment.

Manager W. F. Murray has again given full rein to his excellent showmanship in selection of short subjects to accompany the unusually good feature.

"The Wandering Jew" For Erlanger Today

Conrad Veidt's portrayal of "The Wandering Jew," that legendary villain of the Saviour, who was condemned to wander the earth until He came again, has taken rank with the finest screen performances of all time, is the consensus of reviewers throughout the country.

When Julius Hagen, managing director of Twickenham Film Studios in London, decided to make a screen version of E. Temple Thurston's stage masterpiece he had nobody but Conrad Veidt in mind for the title role.

And Veidt was more than willing to do the part. He had read the script and was enthusiastic about the entire production as outlined. But the great actor was not free at the time. He had a series of engagements to fill. The last of these was his part in "I Was a Spy"; but finally, after what seemed an interminable delay to Hagen, that picture was completed and Veidt was ready for the epic of the wanderer.

In "The Wandering Jew," which will be seen at the Erlanger theater beginning today, Veidt is shown in four reincarnations of the mythical wanderer: as Matathias in Jerusalem the day of the Crucifixion; as the First Crusader; as Matteo Battadlos the Merchant, in Palermo, Sicily, in 1290, and again as Matteo Battadlos in Seville during the days of the Inquisition.

A large and distinguished cast includes Peggy Ashcroft, Joan Maude, Marie Ney and Anne Grey, who play the leading feminine roles; Basil Gill, Francis I. Sullivan, Felix Aylmer and John Stuart, Maurice Elvey directed.

Rogers at Paramount In "Life Begins at 40"

Picture lovers who find Wm. Rogers' brand of humor irresistible will be delighted with the news that his latest picture, "Life Begins at 40," is now at the Paramount theater tomorrow.

Advance reports label this picture, suggested by the Walter B. Pitkin book hit, a bang-up laugh riot. Rogers portrays a doubting, tearful, hearted country editor who proves that the years after 40 are the best and goes in quest of the fountain of youth. He launches a series of situations that smash the funny bone to smithereens.

"Life begins at 40," relates the romance of a young school teacher and a youth "railroaded" to prison. The shrewd editor brings to light facts that clear the boy and stir up a hornet's nest.

The direction of this Sol M. Wurtzel production is by George Marshall. Lamar Trotti, who collaborated on the story of "Judge Priest," wrote the screen play.

nie has given a job in an effort to help the lad go straight. When money is missing things look bad for Raft but Grace Bradley, also a member of the troupe, persuades him to stick it out and clear himself.

En route between towns, the band is kidnapped by a gang of desperados who intend to use the bus for their getaway. Raft makes the criminals believe he is one of them, then outstages them, and turns them over to the police.

Grantland Rice on this program is presenting a most unusual subject, titled "Nerve Control," which depicts the great control of nerves required by many men in various unusual professions. Ted Husing as usual is the capable narrator. A cartoon of Oswald, the little rabbit, and Fox movie-tune news complete the program.

James Cagney Stars In "G Men" at Georgia

The way of the United States government against the master criminals of the nation has been made into a thrilling drama with James Cagney in stellar role, which will open at the Georgia theater today. Those fearless secret service men whose exploits in rounding up the arch desperados of the country have been told in newspaper headlines for the past year are called "G Men," and "G Men" is the title of the screen's first dramatization of their battles with public enemies.

The picture follows the career of one of these "G Men" from the time he joined the federal service, through his training period, through machine gun battles with gangsters to a thrilling climax in which he finally rounds up, and exterminates, a gang of murderous kidnapers.

The story was written by Gregory Rogers and is based on headlines so familiar that spectators will readily recognize many of the incidents.

Cagney, heretofore Hollywood's most famous "bad man," now depicts the "G Man." Opposite him is charming Margaret Lindsay with Robert Armstrong, Ann Dvorak and other favorites in the cast. Pathé News and interesting shorts complete an entertaining program.

Plan Walkout.

As nearly 2,000 employees of the Chevrolet and Fisher Body plants here, already idle as a result of the shutdown of the local factories, were preparing to go on strike at 12:01 this afternoon, M. E. Coyle, president and general manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company, issued a statement clarifying the events culminating in the shutdown of the Toledo (Ohio) plant. Lack of material which is produced in the Toledo plant necessitated the closing down of the Atlanta plants, it was stated.

Coyle in his statement said the Atlanta plants will remain closed until an adequate stock of transmissions can be built up ahead.

"Closing of the Atlanta plant, which has been running at capacity, means a loss of pay roll here of $100,000 a month and will affect 1,000 employees," the statement said. "These figures do not include the loss in wages of the Labor Union Body plant, which also must be closed."

Call was issued last night by officials of the local union for all members to assemble at the headquarters at 442 McDougall boulevard at 10:30 o'clock this morning to receive instructions. An open mass meeting will be held at the Labor Union Body plant at 7:30 o'clock tonight at which events of the strike will be discussed.

Reviewing the negotiations with the workers and the unions, Coyle stated that the primary objective was held in the Toledo plant April 9, and that April 24 was set as the date for the final election by secret ballot.

"Without waiting for the final election, the union business agent and a committee of eight other members of the union demanded that the Toledo Chevrolet management sign a labor agreement within 48 hours."

"No one can operate under the contract submitted to us in anything but a closed shop. It is for this reason we have refused and will continue to refuse to sign the proposed pact, much as we regret the effect this will have upon our laboring people, our dealer organization and the public at large," Coyle said in the statement.

Only acceptance of the union demands, or a request for a conference to discuss them, would have resulted in the Toledo plant strike, according to Charles H. Gillman, president of the union. If no word is received from local Chevrolet and Fisher Body Company officials by noon today, the strikers will commence peaceful picketing at the plant.

The new pact was described as the greatest open alliance since the World War. It would be impossible to move this many men across Europe, of course, but the potential power was regarded as a vital factor in future peace moves.

Its real value lies in the instantaneous pooling of 4,400 war planes and 4,400 tanks which are available in Europe from both sides at once.

LAVAL WILL DISCUSS PACT
MOSCOW, May 2.—(AP)—Announcement of the signature of the Franco-Russian mutual assistance pact in Paris was accompanied today by a statement that French Foreign Minister Pierre Laval's visit to Moscow May 13 will demonstrate further the friendship and collaboration of Russia and France.

Laval will confer with Maxim Litvinov, commissar for foreign affairs, and other high soviet officials. They are expected to discuss the influence the new pact will have on the European situation.

The text of the accord will be made public here and in Paris simultaneously tomorrow night.

partament of labor, discussed the situation with Francis J. Dillon, American representative of the labor union, as soon as Dillon arrived from Washington. He went then to the office of William F. Knudsen, executive vice president of General Motors, and later was conferred with Dillon and Knudsen.

The three avoided any statement relative to the Toledo plant strike, Dillon explaining he had not had time to present fully the union's demands and McGraw saying he would have no statement at least until after he conferred with Dillon and Knudsen.

Effects of the Toledo strike spread today to Kansas City and St. Louis as Chevrolet and Fisher Body Company plants closed in each city for lack of parts. Transmission assemblies appeared the main shortage, since the Toledo plant manufactured a heavy percentage of these for all Chevrolet units.

Coincident with the conference in Detroit, M. E. Coyle, president of the Chevrolet Motor Company, announced a strike if Chevrolet parts were not delivered to the company's plants at Flint, Saginaw and Bay City would remain open regardless of the situation in units elsewhere.

The Flint plant, employing 14,000 workers, manufactures motors and sheet metal for use in 12 other plants. Coyle said parts and materials needed in these plants would be stored until assembly lines began moving again.

At Toledo, Fred Schwake, business agent of the United Automobile Workers of America, said the plant of the Motors Products Company, at Muncie, Ind., is being equipped to produce Chevrolet transmissions and announced the strikers would carry their fight there if the plants were carried out. A group of pickets were reported to have marched to Muncie to observe the situation.

Schwake said members of the automobile workers' union in Warner Gear Company at Muncie had promised to call a strike if Chevrolet parts were included in that plant's schedule.

From Cleveland came a report that several basic industries concerns had received stop orders for Chevrolet parts. The magazine, Steel, estimated the steel industry alone would lose approximately 9 per cent of its present output by a complete halt of Chevrolet production.

While having no relation to the general situation, 57 deaths of 62 employees of Chrysler Corporation plants here were on strike today for a 10 cents an hour pay increase. The men are specialized workers, and correct body errors on the assembly line.

SECRETARY PERKINS SAYS
SITUATION IS MUCH BETTER
WASHINGTON, May 2.—(AP)—Secretary Perkins said tonight the automobile strike situation "looks much better" and expressed hope that a settlement would be reached tomorrow.

She made this comment after a telephone talk with Edward F. McGraw, first assistant secretary of labor, who had spent the day in Detroit with W. S. Knudsen, General Motors vice president, and Francis J. Dillon, American Federation of Labor organizer in the auto industry.

William Green, federation president, meantime blamed the strike on the National Labor Relations board and the General Motors Corporation's "denial" of "rights guaranteed" workers by the auto code.

BY U. S. CHAMBER

and farmer, said after his election that he would take the chamber's resolutions, which left few administration plans unscathed, to the White House, where he was sure they would be discussed "across the table in a friendly way."

Vice presidents who will serve with Sibley include: David F. Edwards, president of the Saco-Lowell shops, Boston, Mass.; T. Guy Woolford, chairman of the board of the Retail Credit Company, Atlanta, Ga.; Felix M. McWhirter, president of the Peoples State Bank, Indianapolis; George W. Holmes, president of the First National Bank, Lincoln, Neb.; Joseph W. Evans, of Evans & Company, Houston, Texas, and Philip J. Fay, of Nichols & Fay, San Francisco.

The new chamber head also said he disliked using the terms "reactionary" or "antagonistic" to describe the conventional actions.

Powell Ruled Out.
President Roosevelt's failure to send a message to the convention was noted on the floor when Francis Powell, chairman of the American Chamber of Commerce in London, suggested a resolution announcing the chamber's willingness to co-operate with the administration on "constructive measures."

President Harriman ruled Powell out of order.

The convention's most vigorous discussion centered on the social security resolution, but on each of five legislative steps urged by President Roosevelt—banking, NRA, holding companies, social security and transportation—the chamber voted disagreement in more or less severe terms.

A resolution was adopted directing further study of unemployment insurance and old-age pensions, questioning the while the "propriety" as well as the constitutionality of any effort by the federal government designed to substitute of this proposed legislation.

Substitute Proposed.
Originally, it favored immediate action on behalf of the chamber, but George Houston, president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, proposed a substitute from the floor.

In reply, Houston said the United States has lived for 150 years and has supported the aged to a greater degree than any other country, adding: "I hope, however, that the federal government will support such great numbers of the population, and we should not now permit this to become a permanent federal policy."

Harriman briefly said the issue was "whether you want to vote for aid to the aged indigent," and Houston's motion was approved by a voice vote.

Resolutions.
A motion to table a resolution approving the administration's foreign trade policy was voted down after Secretary Hull had outlined the program and criticized businessmen who have sought tariff reductions.

The chamber urged "active support of the reciprocal trade agreement program of the government."

On the subject of NRA, the chamber recommended by the chamber but on a wholly voluntary basis, whereas the administration's proposed bill would give the president power to impose codes. Further, the chamber urged collective bargaining provision of the present law have definitely disproved their worth."

This resolution also was passed by a voice vote but again with the accompaniment of a substantial number of "no's."

On the president's plan for holding company regulation, the chamber agreed that "abuses should be prevented," but voted that "state agencies should take concurrent action with such participation by the federal government as interstate problems require."

The bill pending at the capitol, in contrast, would give the government power to regulate the companies without reference to state commissions.

Bank Bill Opposed.
The convention held the banking bill with its sections to increase federal control embraced the danger of political domination and favored more state control.

While in substantial accord on presidential plans for unifying transportation regulation, the chamber opposed the "desired results" as best obtained by separate measures for rail, bus, truck, water and air transportation.

Dissolving the Wagner labor disputes bill and the 30-hour week bill, the convention said:

"To each of these proposals the chamber is definitely opposed."

nois as two states which had not made full provision for unemployment relief, he expressed the belief that these two, along with Georgia, will ultimately "come through." Asked by newspapermen on what he based his confidence, the administrator replied: "Human nature."

Senators Back Appeal.
Headed by Representative Carl Vinson, of Milledgeville, dean of the state group, the Georgia congressmen spent more than an hour going over the situation with the relief administrator, who recently ordered the taking over of all relief activities in the state. Neither Senator Walter F. George nor Senator Richard B. Russell Jr. attended the conference but both were already on record as vigorously supporting the appeal for making the school funds retroactive.

Refusal of Mr. Hopkins to grant the request brought suggestions later in the day for directing a personal appeal to President Roosevelt. Voice of this end, Representative Malcolm C. Tarver, of Dalton, has this to say:

"In my judgment the delegation should seek intervention with the president himself for the purpose of securing a review by him of Administrator Hopkins' action, and I hope this course may be followed."

While disclaiming any intention to dictate to the state the course it should follow in making more liberal provisions for the schools, Mr. Hopkins reminded delegation members it was within the power of the governor to call a special session of the legislature and to do so.

Cites Tax Reduction.
In response to statements by members of the group that the state had expended all funds it was reasonably possible to use for school purposes, the relief head asserted Governor Talmadge had reduced the state tax levy below the constitutional limitation, listing the state is not doing all it is in its power to alleviate the difficulties.

During the Hopkins conference this morning Representative Robert Ramsey, of Atlanta, urged that the instructions given Miss Shepperson for use of the funds be clarified to make the relief money applicable to the schools in Fulton county. The initial order left some confusion resulting in protests lest the Fulton teachers be denied participation on the score they are not a part

Other officers elected by the group of architects, engineers and contractors included Roy G. Jones and Henry Taylor, vice presidents, and C. R. Williams, treasurer. Carroll Griffin, M. R. Loveless, James D'Arcy, Frank Gillespie and Walter Aichel were named directors. Sam Worley is secretary.

M. J. Yeomans, Georgia's attorney general, was the principal speaker, and C. B. Beaulieu, retiring president, briefly recited progress made in better circles in Atlanta during the past year. The new president presided.

In protesting rules of eligibility for school to participate in the $1,300,000, Dr. M. D. Collins, state school superintendent, said most of the rural schools had already completed their seven-month normal terms prior to April 19, with their teachers receiving no pay.

"Thousands of our teachers will not benefit at all," he said.

IN BONUS DEBATES

Senator Vinson, a politician and a candidate for re-election. The president is a politician and a candidate for re-election. He won't veto the bonus."

Senator Thomas, democrat, Oklahoma, said the Patman bill, providing for payment of the certificates in new money, was the only one of the three measures that would cash the bonus in full at once and argued for it as a means of raising the price level and restoring prosperity.

A former veteran, democrat, Oklahoma, offered without debate the American Legion-backed Vinson bill, providing for full payment of the bonus by the government.

Working hard for the Vinson bill in the lobbies outside the senate chamber was John Thomas, Taylor, the Legion's veteran legislative counsel. He hastened out of one of the ante-rooms as Senator Couzens, republican, Michigan, outspoken bonus foe, proposed his measure to be brought to take it up in the senate.

"I thought this was for newspapermen," Couzens said angrily.

Couzens did not mention Taylor by name, but the Legion representative hurriedly left. The Michigan senator then indicated he would not carry the matter further.

With the first vote coming on the choice between the Harrison compromise and the Vinson plan, few senators professed to know the outcome.

GEORGE INSTIGATED OFFER OF VINSON SUBSTITUTE
BY CLARENCE WILLIAMS
WASHINGTON, May 2.—Although confined to his home in Georgia, Walter F. George, of Georgia, was thrust forward today as sponsor for the Vinson bonus bill as a substitute for the Harrison measure reported by the senate finance committee.

Acting on instructions of the Georgia senator, Senator Bennett Clark, of Missouri, proposed the Vinson substitute after the chamber started consideration of the Harrison bonus measure. He explained that he and Senator George stood as joint sponsors of the substitute.

The Vinson bill rejected by the house by a close vote in passing the Patman bill, is supported by the American Legion and provides for liquidation of the soldier bonus through issuance of government bonds to certificate holders in lieu of inflation greenback cash payments called for under the Patman measure.

Senator George has been confined to his hotel quarters with a severe cold since returning to his office from the Venice conference. He asked the Missouri senator to offer the substitute under his joint sponsorship after being advised by attending physicians to remain in bed for a while longer. He is expected to be able to return to the capitol shortly.

The United States and Japan, whose representatives recently conferred here with Britain's on naval matters, will be kept informed of the progress of the Anglo-German conversation as well as France and Italy, because, MacDonald said, "We have nothing to hide and have no intention of making any secret and private agreement with anybody."

"To bring to the appalling destructive possibilities of modern aerial warfare, the prime minister made an impassioned appeal to the reich to join in efforts toward disarmament."

"Our policy," he said, "is not aimed at military alliances but at the widest co-operation. The present good understanding between France and Italy and ourselves is a guarantee of peace. It challenges no one."

IN ARMS CONTEST

match any assailant's because of superior men and material.

Won't Be Inferior.
The packed house of commons was tensely expectant as MacDonald, the old fighter for peace, made the eagerly awaited statement on foreign policy that launched debate on foreign affairs and set Britain squarely in the middle of the armaments race.

Stern and conciliatory by turns toward Germany, the prime minister said unequivocally:

"We propose to put our power of defense into a state which will enable our people to feel that they are protected."

He assailed Germany's recent moves to build up her land, sea and air forces, as he did last week in his national labor party's official news letter.

"Under no circumstances would we accept any position of inferiority to whatever air force may be raised by Germany in the future."

In Midst of Race.
In the galleries listening closely, were the diplomats of many nations and the prime ministers of the dominions, who yesterday assailed the government's policy to limit any legitimate British effort to keep peace.

Spokesmen for all parties participated in the debate that followed, each testifying to anxiety over the increasing evidence that Europe was now fairly in the midst of an armaments race.

Speaking for the labor party, George Lansbury demanded an answer to the question whether the government would join in the abolition of air warfare and said:

"I have no confidence in peace on the parts dependent on the existence of enormous armaments. There is no chance of real peace unless the small nations are consulted."

Sir Herbert Samuel, the liberal spokesman, said public opinion would not support "whatever kind of co-operation with other powers in opposition to Germany" because "all nations have uneasy consciences" and all "are conscious of the danger that the collection of the sanctity of treaties and other phrases might be a cover for the mere retention of the status quo in Europe."

However, he promised support for the government's aviation boost—the second in three months—provided it could be shown they were necessary to maintain parity.

As to that the fiery Churchill had no doubts.

"German ascendancy in the air is already a fact," he told the commons. "For the last two years some members of parliament have been endeavoring to convince the government of the danger of the pace at which German aviation was proceeding."

"Anyone could see that the government's program of August, 1934, to increase the home production of five years was utterly inadequate and bore no relation to the pace at which German aviation was developing."

Another debate will be held in the commons shortly, at which the government is expected to disclose details of its plans for speeding up the five-year aviation program. Authoritative quarters said this probably would take place May 15.

Anglo-Reich Talks.
MacDonald, announcing Anglo-German naval talks, also postponed attention to the royal jubilee celebrations in Britain would be held, also disclosed that this government would send an observer to the jubilee.

Defending wage increases, MacDonald said southern textile workers have an advantage over those of the north by lower living costs, representing he declared, 60 cents a room a week for rent alone.

He added that the type of work produced by natives in mills required higher paid skilled labor.

Two important groups, the Cotton Textile Institute and the Textile Code Authority, are on the head tomorrow. Delegates from Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Connecticut are to present their views on the textile problem later.

KILLING OF DOWNS LAID TO "ABUSES"

$1.50 a week and his board and that he has been so employed ever since."

Calls Parent Abusive.

During the entire 15 years he had been in his father's employ, the younger Downs said, his father has been extremely abusive and was under the influence of liquor most of the time. He said his father assaulted him on many occasions and cursed and abused him practically every day.

"I had endured my father's abuses without complaining and always have done all I could to get along with him," he said.

All day Wednesday, Downs said, his father cursed and abused him and his brother. He said he remonstrated with his father for cursing his brother and was told to mind his own business.

He said he thought he had a right to take up for his brother.

"You are a dirty coward," Downs said his father shouted at him.

"I'm no coward, and you know it," he said he retorted.

His father, he said, then cursed him and called him a liar.

"The abuse I had been taking from him not only Wednesday, but for years, suddenly drove me insane. I did not know what I was doing. My mind was blank. I picked up the pistol I had been repairing and started shooting. I was not able to control my actions," Downs said in the statement.

Downs said he remembered that Mrs. Carter was in the shop during the day, but that he did not remember whether she was in the shop at the time of the shooting and that he had no recollection of shooting her.

Shortly after the shooting Wednesday afternoon, Downs told police and newspapermen that he turned the smoking pistol on Mrs. Carter when she came in for shooting his father.

He said he was neither drunk nor under the influence of drugs at the time of the shooting, though admitted in his statement that he was "still feeling" a drink of whiskey which he took about noon.

His father's abuse did not end with him, he said in his statement, saying that a month ago his father knocked down and so severely injured his fifth wife, Julia, that she was unable to continue with her duties as bookkeeper at the shop and it was because of Mrs. Carter's incapacity that Mrs. Carter was employed.

Much of the quarrel between him and his father, he said, was over Mrs. Julia Downs. He told his father he would like to see her return to the shop and he said his father informed him she was not coming back and that Mrs. Carter was in charge of the office and that if he didn't like it he could get out.

Downs described his father in his statement as "a man of violent temper; that he was frequently in trouble with the police; that he had also been in trouble for fooling with other men's wives." He said the elder Downs was "a habitual drunkard and appeared to have no respect for anybody, cursing and abusing anyone who displeased him."

Yesterday, Downs had regained his composure. He talked slowly and plainly and his statements were coherent. When taken to the police headquarters following the shooting Wednesday afternoon, he was described by Chief of Detectives, Avenue Police, as "a very drunk" and incoherently protested that the shooting was "justifiable homicide."

The elder Downs, well known throughout the south as an expert gunsmith and locksmith and safe and vault repairman, was at one time a vaudeville performer and established his home in Atlanta at the completion of one of his vaudeville tours and set up the business which since has carried his name. He was known by local craftsmen as a talented mechanic and inventive genius. He frequently was called upon by engineers and architects for consultation regarding a mechanical problem. He installed many of the largest safes and vaults in banks over the south.

Carter Aware of Feeling.

Mrs. Carter had been employed by Downs previously as bookkeeper and, according to members of her family, had taken the job temporarily to "help straighten things out" at the insistence of Downs. She was instructed it was said to "keep Alvin out of the cash drawer."

The woman's husband said he was aware that ill blood had existed between Downs and his son and that Alvin had been "in the air" for days. William Downs, who also was arrested following the shooting, and was kept in the city jail over night at the request of members of the family, for "safe keeping" was released yesterday morning.

Funeral services for Mrs. Carter will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the St. Andrew's Episcopal church where she was an active worker. The Rev. Paul Moore will officiate and burial will be in Crestwood cemetery, with Awtry & Lowndes in charge.

Funeral services for Mr. Downs will be conducted this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Peachtree chapel of Brandon Bond-Condon. Burial will be in Greenwood cemetery.

PRESIDENT ORDERS
RELIEF NEWS GAG

ing program. For after weeks of doing hordes in the money rush, they had real authority for their "I don't know."

So to the money seeking group, including governors on down to small town officials, these officials said they had word that no information would be given out by them until after allocations for specific purposes had been announced either through the White House or with its approval.

Mr. Roosevelt, government officials disclosed confidentially, had sent a reminder that all information, at the outset at least, would be cleared through Frank C. Walker, head of the clearing house for public works, subject to his own approval. Stephen Early, one of the White House secretaries, was said to be slated to have a big hand in handling the information.

Officials Silent.

Some officials said they had gained the inference that should any bureau seek to build up public sentiment for its individual program in order to get an allocation it might be summarily cut off. Thus, they are adhering to silence, pending announcements from the White House.

Meantime, representatives of every state and most of the territories and possessions are jamming government corridors, congressional halls and hotels seeking allotments for various work projects.

Governor John W. Troy, from far-off Alaska, was here today to see what he could get for his territory, in the way of army and commercial air bases, and the Matanuska colonization program.

Other Money Seekers.

Other governors who have been here included James V. Alfred, of Texas, and Clyde Tingler, of New Mexico, while mayors of many cities, state commissioners, engineers, chamber of commerce delegations, university professors, and national guard officers have converged on the capital to get some dust from the $4,000,000,000 relief "pot of gold."

Meanwhile in the face of an army of job and project seekers that moved upon the capital by hundreds, the administration moved with deliberate caution toward the actual spending of the $4,000,000,000 work relief fund.

Among the chief developments of the day: H. H. Hopkins, the relief administrator, planned the distribution of $140,000,000 among the states for relief work during May.

Climate to Georgia.

He said, however, Illinois would get no money for May relief until the state put up $3,000,000 a month and that it was up to Georgia to pay her own teachers.

The La Follette-governor and senator of Wisconsin, talked over the needs of their state with the president and his three top advisers—Hopkins, Walker and Secretary Ickes.

Hopkins gave a restatement of the presidential dictum that persons on relief rolls shall be given preference at work-relief jobs.

An assistant and the heads of three sections of Rexford G. Tugwell's rural resettlement division were chosen. They were Lawrence Hewes, of San Francisco, assistant to Tugwell, and Lee A. Strong, Dr. L. C. Gray and J. S. Lansell.

Ickes and Hopkins promised to have new works regulations and relief areas worked out soon.

Hopkins' allocation of the $140,000,000.

Here's Relief for Athlete's Foot

The parasite, or fungus, which usually attacks the feet between the toes, resulting in destruction of the tissue, rawness, inflammation and itching, causing Athlete's Foot, is now conquered with a pleasant, odorless, instantly soothing ointment, called "Tetterine." It gives prompt relief from the severe burning, itching inflammation by destroying the fungus causing it. You can almost feel it act. Healing and formation of clean, healthy skin follows in a few days. Relief from this condition is guaranteed if used as directed. Ask your druggist for "Tetterine." (adv.)

000 of relief funds for May was made while the senate appropriations committee was sending him a letter asking the methods of distributing relief funds among the states. The inquiry was ordered yesterday. Hopkins said he would send the matter promptly.

Program Outlined.

A program was outlined by which projects drafted by the some half hundred agencies that will handle work relief spending will be trimmed to fit employment needs in the relief areas in which they are located.

Senators Shipstead, farmer-labor, Minnesota, and Murphy, democrat, Iowa, forecast work funds would be used to develop the upper Mississippi channel.

Secretary Ickes said new public works administration regulations will be drafted "very soon" to supersede those now existing. He was unable to state an exact policy on how much communities must contribute toward non-federal projects beyond saying "a number will be on a loan and grant basis."

Visiting delegations conferred with Frank C. Walker, director of the applications division, about the allocation of funds for specific projects.

Organized G. Tugwell's resettlement division, moved toward completion with indications that Lee A. Strong, Dr. L. C. Gray and J. S. Lansell would occupy key posts.

New Executive Order.

President Roosevelt drafted a new executive order to set other sections of his work machinery to moving officially.

Indications were given that Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the bureau of public roads, personally would head the new grade crossing elimination division. He is a republican and has been chief of the bureau since 1923.

Hopkins' arrangement to allocate $140,000,000 of the $880,000,000 direct relief money to the states to cover May relief needs came as the senate appropriations committee directed to him a letter asking the methods of distributing relief funds among states.

This inquiry was ordered by the senate on the motion of Couzens, republican, Michigan.

MASS MEETING IN MERIWETHER
FLAYS TALMADGE

It is estimated that the radio speech he is to make will cost $12,000. This is evidently being paid for by the republican party.

Harry Huddleston, superintendent of the A. B. and C. railroad here, in his speech said that "When Talmadge starts his third party with a man who is a republican, we will bury them so deep in an avalanche of votes that you will never find them."

Tom Linder is just a rubber stamp. Talmadge is just an old wagon and is rattling on."

Following the speeches a telegram of confidence was ordered sent to President Roosevelt by the Meriwether club, which expressed great love and appreciation for what you have done for Georgia. Had a few selfish politicians co-operated with you in these efforts, our recovery would have been complete by now under your wise leadership."

Purpose Stated.

The meeting tonight was for the purpose of organizing a "Give the Credit" club, which has for its aim, its sponsors said, "to advise the outside world of the true situation in Georgia, to show in what esteem the president and his recovery program are held in Georgia."

The meeting was held in the Manly house, where the speaker, E. E. Smith, local attorney and former member of the legislature, promoter of the club, presided and explained the purpose of the meeting. Harry Kennedy, of Barnsville, attorney and former Lamar county legislator and prominent Legionnaire, who is assisting in the state organization, was on the speakers' stand also.

Several counties in west Georgia represented by delegations included Meriwether, Harris, Talbot and Muscogee, Greenville, Warm Springs, Woodbury in Meriwether; Talbotton, Woodland, Chipley, Hamilton and Columbus being represented.

The telegram, which was read and debated, was as follows:

"Hon. Eugene Talmadge, ex-Kentucky racer. Remember you were elected governor by Georgia democrats and not president by republicans. We suggest that after enjoying the Derby Saturday that you return to your duties as governor, and forget your republican affiliations. Signed 'The Meriwether County Give the Credit Club.'"

Smith and Kennedy announced at the meeting that more than 1,000 citizens of Meriwether county had signed the petition calling for the organization of the club which was perfected tonight. They stated that additional members were coming in daily by wire, phone and by letter.

Smith, in explaining the purposes of the meeting, said that the club had its origin in the desire of Meriwether citizens to acquaint the outside world with the "true facts of the regard in which President Roosevelt is held not only in his adopted county, Meriwether, but all over Georgia. A petition of purpose to form the club was tonight followed, he explained.

It was announced that similar clubs were being organized in other counties in the state and every time Governor Talmadge speaks over the radio or in another state other than Georgia, special efforts will be made to offset his statements by the friends of the president in Georgia.

July Meet Planned.

Plans were also made here tonight for Roosevelt "appreciation day" to be held at Warm Springs on July 4. It was suggested tonight that the meeting would be the biggest of the kind ever held in Georgia. President Roosevelt is to be urged to attend and democrats of national prominence as well as many Georgians are expected to speak. While no definite plans were made tonight, tentative arrangements call for a forenoon program, a barbecue dinner with different sections of Georgia furnishing the carcasses. An afternoon session is also planned at which the patients at Warm Springs would take part in explaining the benefits of the Foundation there. Arrangements will be made to care for 25,000 at Warm Springs on July 4. It was announced.

Following the organization of the club here tonight, Smith and Kennedy announced that formation of other clubs in the state will go forward rapidly.

Facts concerning the recovery program in Georgia and the south will be compiled for distribution, it was announced.

GOERING WARNS
GERMANY'S 'FOES'

ein Press Association, said Germany's air strength lay in the superiority of men and materials, and in an amazingly frank address, mapped out the secret process by which the reich, defying the Versailles treaty, secretly retrained in the air.

He appeared in full uniform, in company with his recent bride, the former Emmy Sontheimer, Goering said, "was accomplished in a manner so original and so unique that without a knowledge of the facts in the case, it would be hard to believe."

He said the air program did not contemplate construction of Zeppelins or aircraft carriers, the former because he regarded them as too expensive and too easily destroyed and the latter because Germany's purposes were purely defensive.

The air minister denied existence of any plans to send troops into the demilitarized Rhineland, saying, however, that an increased police force was needed there.

PICKED GERMAN POLICE REPORTED IN RHINELAND

PARIS, May 2.—(P)—A dispatch from Nancy to the Newspaper Le Matin, tonight said German Schatz Polizei (picked police) were stationed along the Rhineland's demilitarized zone ready to occupy it in violation of the Versailles treaty.

The newspaper said it was learned authoritatively the police were stationed all along the right bank of the Rhine, especially at Dusseldorf, Frankfurt, Mannheim, Karlsruhe and Stuttgart.

"They are ready at the first signal to cross the Rhine," Le Matin said, "an occupancy in a military manner the entire region which, according to the Versailles treaty, should not receive any garrisons."

CONFESSED 'FIEND'
SAYS HE'S FIREBUG

son's aversion to sin, his resolutions for self-betterment.

Dr. Harry Hoffman, of the Cook county behavior clinic, interrogated Peterson in an attempt to analyze the "peculiar mental process," which, according to Captain Harding, influenced the youth to steal from building to building in the dawn of April 23, stuff paper under hall carpets and ignite eight fires. He was asked by investigators:

"What prompted you to set the fires?"

They quoted him as replying:

"After a few drinks the spirits would whisper to me. They told me to start the fires."

Captain Harding took Peterson, a stock blond of prepossessing appearance and meticulous attire, to the flame-scarred Goldberg home this afternoon. Asked again if he was responsible, he was quoted as answering sullenly "I don't remember."

Miss Vivian Zitzler, a girl friend, told authorities, Peterson was "a quiet, polite, and a very good student."

John Hubbard Jr., former schoolmate, told police the prisoner had boasted of superior mental ability. Miss Alice Heffern, who was a rooming house owner, said she had seen Peterson in the fire-ravaged apartment, identified Peterson.

Recalling that Peterson had been questioned in connection with several arson episodes in 1932, detective questioned him a week ago while vigilantes were guarding Rogers Park against fresh attacks. Captain Harding disclosed he had pointed to him as Peterson's hands, but the suspect had explained he habitually bit his fingers while writing. He was freed then but rearrested after investigators uncovered the diaries and reported matches found in his room.

The constabulary returned the fire, possibly killing several of the sakdalists. Reports were meager, communications having been cut in a well-carried-out plot.

Popular Version.

A popular version of the uprising's start was given the United Press as follows:

The president (mayor) of the town of Mutinilla, in Rizal province, tipped the constabulary that the sakdalists were plotting to attack Manila last midnight. This information and the fact that communications were being cut, caused officials to place strong constabulary details at trouble centers.

The move of the constabulary caused the politers to disperse in the Manila area, most of the trouble thus far coming from the vicinity of Santa Rosa, Benigno Ramos, sakdal leader, left months ago and is believed to be in Japan. A huge crowd cheered him as he sailed on his mission.

In Manila, while the warning came the constabulary at the local Gagalangin barracks, largest in the islands, was promptly mobilized.

Francisco Interview.

The United Press obtained an exclusive interview with G. B. Francisco, chief-of-staff of the constabulary. He said:

"We received word from Mantinilla that radicals were concentrating there. We rushed there with troops and found everything peaceful."

"Then we were informed that gunfire had occurred in Santa Rosa. We proceeded there and the sakdalists fired on us as we entered the town. The fire was arrested there. Additional arrests are expected."

"Later the town was plunged into darkness. Roads were jammed by trucks whose drivers fled when the first shots were fired."

"The uprising was long planned. It was inspired by communists, most of the participants being merely ignorant peasants."

"Fifty constabulary men at present are controlling things quietly in that sector."

United States troops, stationed in the islands, took up posts in Manila to protect army property. The populace became excited when reports were circulated that the sakdalists intended to invade the capital.

U. S. Troops Scout Orders.

Army officers emphasized that the troops would not intervene unless asked to do so by Acting Governor Hayden.

Hayden left Baguio several days ago to inspect the mountain provinces. He was believed to be in Bontok, Governor General Frank Murphy is in the United States.

The fighting apparently centered in the Rizal, Laguna and Bulacan provinces. The Filipino officers and boys were wounded in a sharp skirmish at the town of Santa Rosa. Word of the battles came slowly into Manila over disrupted communications systems.

Telephone wires north and south of the capital were cut. Communication with the summer capital at Baguio was by radio.

The Filipino government under Acting Governor Hayden appeared determined to use further armed force, if necessary, to rout the sakdalists. More than a score of persons described as communists but believed part of the sakdalists uprising have been rounded up. The fleeing insurgents abandoned 15 automobiles and took to the jungle.

Situation in Hand.

The American-trained Philippine constabulary reported it had a situation in hand. Major J. E. H. Stevenson, told the United Press all telephone lines north had been cut at Marikina, 14 miles out of Manila. Lines were cut at Binan, 13 miles away, he said.

A Filipino detail was rushed to Marikina, in Bulacan province. The United Press reported its telegraph lines between Cavite and Los Banos had been cut. Patrols were dispatched to repair the break.

The Play.
West opened the diamond ten, which held the trick. A diamond was continued, East winning with the nine-spot, and returning the jack.

South had his choice of plays at this point. He could discard a losing club, permitting West to ruff the trick, later picking up the trumps and attempting the club finesse to fulfill his contract. Or he could ruff immediately and learn something about the trump situation. He chose the latter course. South ruffed with the ten of spades, which held. West discarded a low heart. South next led a heart to dummy's king, but West jumped up with the ace and shifted to clubs. South, realizing he had to lose one club trick anyway, decided to postpone his club guess and went up with the ace in dummy, and then led the nine of spades. East covered with the queen, forcing South to win in his own hand with the ace.

He led a low club. West playing the nine and—after considerable thought played the deuce from dummy. On East's vulnerable overall of one diamond and subsequent heart raise, that player should have held the club king originally.

When East was forced to take with the club king, South claimed the balance. One slight slip from the start to the finish of the hand would have meant the defeat of the contract, but South pulled himself more than equal to the occasion.

terior boundaries of contributing areas, are also protected, he said.

The forester added:

"There are two things that the timber land owner must make definite provision for. One is adequate fire control and the other is that when the pulp mills come, in harvesting the timber crop, seed trees should be left to assure a second crop of trees, thus avoiding drastic thinning. In many sections where pulp mills are located the owners have cut everything big enough for pulping and now the lands are either lying out or are having to be replanted at considerable cost."

The demand for seedlings from Georgia state nurseries, he said, is the largest the state has known.

"We now have orders for more seedlings for delivery in December, 1935, than we grew last year at the nurseries," he continued. Anticipating this demand, the C. C. boys collected over 6,000 pounds of loblolly, longleaf and slash pine seed last fall. This enables us to considerably enlarge our nursery and we expect to have from 8,000,000 to 10,000,000 seedlings for planting next winter. These are available to landowners at $2 per thousand."

Lufburrow said the largest single order was for 5,000,000 seedlings purchased by an insurance company to reforest its holdings in Georgia. The order was placed by C. M. Phillips, of Dublin, the company's representative.

Junior Leaguers Make Debut This Afternoon as Radio Artists

By Sally Forth.

RADIO artists can look to their laurels for talented members of the Atlanta Junior League will make their debut over the air this afternoon. Voices whose qualities are particularly well pitched for radio speaking have been discovered in the League. In roles of witches, fairies, dogs, cows, cackling hens, etc., these young society maids and matrons will present plays for children for five consecutive weeks. That appealing story, "The Wishing Elves," has been selected as the initial play. Its broadcast is scheduled for 4:45 p. m. today over station WSB. Junior Leaguers invite children to listen in at that hour.

So realistically and so cleverly do the amateur actors portray the characters of the fairy story that little imagination is required to visualize the giants, witches and elves in the make-believe land. The part of the little boy, Jimmy, is assumed by Nancy Frederick Pegram and that of little Susie by Ruth Osborn Candler. Neil Quarterman's deep-toned speaking voice makes her ideally fitted for the part of the big, bold giant, Mary Hines Daniel plays the double role of the giant's daughter and the witch. So perfectly does Mary speak her two parts that the radio audience will easily visualize the old witch making her appearance astride a broomstick. Josephine Hicks has been cast in the role of the mother. The whimsical charm and feminine voices of Mary Bryan and Florence Bryan Ansley caused this pair of sisters to be chosen as the elves in the play.

"The Wild Swan" is the play chosen for next Friday's presentation. Each Friday thereafter at 4:45 p. m. the Junior League's radio stars will give enjoyment to hundreds of children who will compose the unseen audience.

GLADYS LINDSEY attends Oglethorpe University. She stood her history examination quite recently. One of the questions to be answered was: "What was Crompton's mule?" Here was her answer: "Crompton's mule was the animal General Crompton rode in the battle in which he defeated Napoleon."

It turned out that Crompton's mule was a spinning machine which spun stronger thread than the spinning jenny invented by Hargreaves, or the water frame invented by Arkwright.

ALTHOUGH tempered by informality as to social affairs, the presence here of Mrs. Elbert Jackson, of Douglass, Long Island, is of sincere interest to her wide circle of friends. As the former Constance Wright, of Augusta, this lovely visitor was numbered among the most beautiful members of society in the state. A tall, stately brunette, she suggests a glamorous romantic type of beauty which is only rivaled by her charming manner.

Her marriage to Elbert Jackson, a Georgia Tech graduate, and also of Augusta, took her east for residence. They maintain a home in Douglass and during the summer months they have a handsome place, very modernistic in design, at Montauk Point.

"Connie," as Mrs. Jackson is affectionately known to her friends, is the mother of adorable twin daughters, Constance Cabell and Crowell Brailsford. At present they are with their maternal grandmother, Mrs. Boykin Wright, in Augusta. Elbert Jackson, their father, is expected to fly down from New York to join his wife here for a few days and return to their former home in Augusta for a visit.

Mr. Jackson, you know, is an internationally known artist, and as one turns pages of leading magazines his work as illustrations for the stories is a familiar and pleasing sight to his friends.

Mrs. Jackson is dividing her visit between her cousin, Marjorie Weldon, and Mrs. William T. Ellis III, a former Augustan, who was Frances Tennent. Mr. Jackson is a first cousin of Mrs. John M. Slaton Jr., who was Julia Butt, of Augusta. Mrs. Slaton and Miss Weldon bear the title of godmothers for the twins.

Augusta seems to be well represented here this week. Pegram Williams has been having a round of good times as the guest of Mrs. Slaton and plans to return home Saturday.

CAN you imagine a lovelier picture than Frances Gurr McLanahan arrived in swirling crinolines and real lace after the style of the eighteen-fifties? Exclusive New York society was treated to just such a picture last night at the third annual opera ball given at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York.

You see, the theme of the brilliant spectacle was "Magnolia and Orange Blossoms—A Romance of Old Louisiana." And what could be more appropriate than Frances' representation of her great-grandmother, Sara Billingslea Barrow, a noted southern beauty of that time? Sally has no details of her costume, but if you know Frances you have only to imagine her startlingly beautiful beauty enhanced by a picturesque gown of hoopskirt and pantaloons like the prevailing mode of 1850.

The magnificent pageant presented a picture of the old south. The central theme was a wedding ceremony at a famous old southern mansion, Belle River, near New Orleans, facing on a terraced plantation garden with the Mississippi in the background. The story, based on an authentic romantic episode in the life of one of the aristocratic families of old Louisiana, was written by Ben Ali Haggin, and required a cast of several hundred, including prominent artists of the Metropolitan and the stage and many leaders in New York society.

Assisting Mr. Haggin in the production were such impressive names as those of Mrs. Vincent Astor, Mrs. Harrison Williams, Mrs. Harold E. Talbot, Mrs. Allan A. Ryan Jr., the Grand Duchess Marie and Miss Eleanor Barry. Lucie Bori was general chairman of the ball.

Riding Club.
Members of the Junior Riding Club will assemble at 11:30 o'clock Saturday morning, May 4, at the Biltmore riding on Roxboro road, for a picnic ride.

Mrs. Clyde King Jr. Makes Request.

Garden clubs of greater Atlanta are requested to report immediately to Mrs. Clyde King Jr., 1032 Lullwater road if space is to be reserved for pictures of their garden project exhibited at the Atlanta flower show May 9-10. This will be a very interesting exhibition and space is limited.

Fulton High Seniors Will Present Play

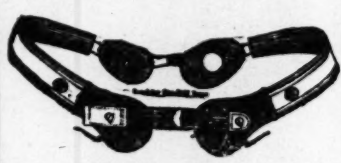

Members of the senior class of Fulton High school has selected for its play Marion Short's "The Blossoming of Mary Ann," to be presented on Thursday and Friday evenings, May 9 and 10, at 8 o'clock, in the school auditorium. Mrs. S. B. Strout, the director, assisted by Misses Dorothy Senter, Sara Middlebrooks, Ida Shepherd and Mrs. C. J. Gordon, have selected Margaret Schenk for the leading role of Mary Ann on Thursday evening and Alice Tarver for this part Friday evening. William Berkeley, the masculine lead, will be taken by Bruce Brannon.

The stars will be supported by the following cast: Morris McDonald, as Charles Mason; Barron Wilson, as Lyle Henderson; Grover Schenk, as Teddy Farnum; Billie Wells, as Mrs. Kirkland; Laura Martin, as Mrs. Simmons; Faith Maxwell, as Betty Scoggins; Mary Dell Ivie, as Miss Sissy; Emily Brown, as Elaine Jewett; Rebecca Waldron, as Trella Jewett; Helen Adams, as Patty Cloverleaf, and Helen Mathis, as Mrs. Kirkland's maid.

Mrs. Kenneth Murrell, business manager, states that an added feature will be the awarding of a prize. The sale of tickets is in the hands of junior class teachers, Miss Pauline Magruder and Douglas G. MacRae.

The Beautiful Derelict

BY CAROLYN WELLS

WHAT WAS GONE BEFORE... glass and the frame of the small picture.

He was not, however, an expert, and though he was careful enough, his prints were far from clear and definite. In fact, they were so very amateurish that Stone felt no reason to show them to Cox, especially as that worthy had declared his intention of securing the prints himself, and his experts would, of course, take proper ones.

"What's become of that horrible image?" Cox asked.

"The korowaa?" They gave it to Mrs. Mingle, Stone told him. "You see, it's a supernatural fetish, or something, and the housekeeper believes in it. She has it set up in her place, and is waiting for it to speak to her." Stone paused in front of the picture. Suddenly he cried, "Where are they? Who did it?"

"Who did what?" Cox asked.

"Wiped away all the prints! See, there isn't a sign of them on the glass or on the frame!"

"Whoever left them must have come here, later, and wiped them away."

"Not necessarily. They may have been wiped away by a cleaning maid or a houseman."

"Yes, they might. It's a pity they're gone; they would have been a good clue."

"A very good one. As it stands, we only know that someone took hold of the picture, put the prints behind it, and left it hanging a trifle crooked. What does that suggest to you, Inspector?"

"Only that the murderer of Van Zandt put them there after he had used one for his dreadful purpose. And, consequently, that the finding of them, here in Barry's room, shows that Barry did kill Van Zandt, after all. I picked up some of the servants that Barry was sweet on that siren woman, Vera."

"And when he had to take Van Zandt in his yacht, he thought it a good opportunity to kill him so he could marry his widow? And what was to happen to the widow?"

"When a young man kills another man, because he wants to marry his widow, he doesn't stop to think what happens to his current sweetheart. Young men are like that now. Barry was tired of Jane, and was keen for the lovely charmer, with the long, glittering eyes. So, he set to work to get her, and found it no very difficult matter."

"Well, Inspector, you amaze me. Now, it seems to me a totally different story. Barry was a smart lad, from all I've heard, I mean an intellectual chap, with a clever and ingenious brain. He could have concocted this diabolical scheme, but he didn't. The murderer planted those prints where I found them so Barry would be suspected."

Cox sniffed at this, but Stone went on. "Barry was too smart, too far-sighted to let himself in as a suspect—if he did the deed. He was far too clever to leave a picture in his own room hanging crookedly, because of a great big, fat, stupid, and stupid as he was, he would have thought of the deed. But a criminal, planting those things, to make trouble for Barry, would of course leave the picture out of plumb to attract attention, and leave the parcel of prints there, where it would surely be found."

"You think this? Then it's probably true," Cox said, always ready to subscribe to Stone's opinions.

"I do. But we must remember that the criminal, whoever he is, is extraordinarily clever, and can bamboozle us into thinking he's a fool."

"Well, you must admit now that the criminal is someone in the house. How else could he go about unnoticed?"

"Someone's coming," Stone said, suddenly, and looked up to see Rod Campion in the doorway.

"Am I intruding?" a pleasant voice asked, and Cox introduced the two men. Stone had never met Campion before, and there was admiration in the glance he cast at the blond giant. A viking type, Rod's big blue eyes and bronzed gold hair, combined with a most engaging smile, commanded immediate interest.

"Are you a carpenter?" Stone asked, noting a fine saw and a T-square under his arm.

"I would be, if Uncle Pat would let me," and Campion smiled. "But every time I use his tools, he says I spoil their edge, or he'll break them, although really I do nothing of the sort!"

"Look here," said Stone, "I'm getting mixed up. First, let me tell you that Mr. Dan was the wonderful handy man, with a fully fitted carpenter shop and all. He told me himself he mended things all over the house for Ming or anybody. Now, you're all acquainted with him, aren't you?"

The fact that savages hear slight sounds and see delicate footprints in the sand, while these are unnoticed by most civilized people, does not prove that their sense of hearing or sight is better. It merely indicates that the savage has trained his senses to recognize these things. On the other hand, civilized men see many things that the savage does not. There is probably no difference in their abilities, scientists say.

SALLY'S SALLIES

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

THE ENGLISH IN VIRGINIA.
V-Pocahontas.

Pocahontas proved a good friend of the English in Virginia.

After Smith was set free and sent back to Jamestown, she sent presents to the people in the village. Now and then, she came herself in company with one or more warriors, and brought slain deer, cornbread and other food.

About a year later, John Smith was hurt in a powder explosion. His wounds were not quick to heal, and soon he took ship to sail back to England. He said that he wanted to have good doctors; but this may have been just an excuse to leave the colony. He had fallen into disputes with some of the other settlers, and did not find life in Jamestown so cheerful as he had wished.

Pocahontas asked about her friend, and was told of the accident. It appears that she was led to believe that he had died after his return to England.

In later years, I am sorry to say, there were quarrels with the Powhatan Indians, and a few of the colonists were captured.

In the hope of freeing the colonists, a certain Captain Argall coaxed Pocahontas aboard his ship and then told her she was a prisoner. A message was sent to the Powhatan:

"Your daughter is now our prisoner. We shall not treat her ill, but we shall keep her until you set the white men free. You must also return the swords and guns which have been taken from our town."

The chief was anxious to have his daughter, and so he agreed to return the prisoners; but he wanted to keep the guns, which seemed to him to stand for safety against attack by the Indians.

Months dragged on before an agreement could be made; and during this time Pocahontas became more and more friendly with a colonist by the name of John Rolfe. An old record calls him "an honest gentleman," and relates that he had been "in love with her long before this."

It was at last decided that Rolfe and Pocahontas should be married; and the event brought peace between the English and the Indians.

A few years later, when Pocahontas was about 29 years of age, she made a journey to England with Rolfe—and their little son Thomas. In England Pocahontas met the king and queen, and was given parties by the lords and ladies. She dressed herself in the English fashions of the day. Among those she met was Captain Smith, who, far from being dead, was hale and hearty.

The young Indian woman became suddenly ill, and died before sailing back to Virginia. The baby Thomas was left in England with friends of his father, who returned to Jamestown.

Nellie Flag Turns in Sterling Performance on Monday Track

HARD RAIN CUTS WORKOUT SLATE TO MERE GALLOPS

Ideal Weather Promised Saturday; Record
Crowd Is Seen.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 2.—(AP)—That usual pre-Derby enthusiasm over some outstanding filly, only one of which ever won the Kentucky Derby, mounted a bit higher today as Nellie Flag turned in a sterling workout.

The Calumet farm miss didn't make the backers of such colts as Today, Commonwealth and Boxtorn change their bets, but she was in a mood to run and after she spurred over a mile in 1:40 2/5, Jockey Eddie Arcaro was all smiles.

The Brandon Farm's Tuticurio got the only other workout of any consequence today as practically all the trainers who could get their steeds out before a heavy rain came up were content to gallop them.

The rain and overcast skies during the day hardly served to dampen the enthusiasm of the tremendous Derby crowd already beginning to pour into the city for the weather bureau said prospects were for ideal weather Saturday.

The Derby visitors will be augmented by 500 Kentucky national guardsmen who will try to see to it that there is no fence crashing and no over-running of the track this year, no matter how great the crowd.

The three-year-olds that will start Saturday appeared likely tonight to include Today, Nellie Flag, Flat Eye, Omaha, Psychic Bid, Commonwealth, Sun Fairplay, Boxtorn, Whopper, Roman Soldier, McCarthy, Whisker, Tuticurio, Morpick, St. Bernard, Blackbitch and Prince Splendor, McCarthy, winner of the Louisiana Derby this year, was brought in this morning from Detroit.

THREE MATCHES ON CARD TONIGHT

May Stein, Chicago, holder of the world's women's mat title, will make her only appearance in Atlanta when she meets Frances Gomez, Miami, in one of the main matches at the Riverside arena tonight on Promoters Roby and Bettis' weekly card, starting at 8:30 o'clock.

Miss Stein will have a weight advantage on the southern wrestler, and quite a bit of experience. However, Miss Gomez has won all of her matches recently and the champion will have to extend herself to win.

Miss Stein boasts of having defeated two male wrestlers in Texas lately.

King Kong, the tough Greek, will meet John Mauldin in another feature match. Mauldin is a rough grappler and anything is liable to happen when these two meet.

Son Almond, a favorite here, will meet John Ellis, the Ferriole Turk, in another 60-minute affair.

Young London will also share the spotlight on this program when he meets Ted Dugan, Chattanooga, in the opening match.

The Riverside arena is located on the River car line.

DAVISON BEATS J. P. ALLEN, 7 TO 6

Friendly rivals in the commercial field for many years, Davison-Paxon Stokes and J. P. Allen are now rivals in diamond ball play, each firm having entered a team in the Merchants' league of the Greater Atlanta Diamond Ball Association, for daylight play, playing under the sponsorship of the recreational department, FERA.

The first game of the season for each team was when they met on Thursday afternoon on the grounds of Bass Junior High School.

The game was generally good, although there were some rough spots, due to lack of practice on each side. The only play of more than usual note were two homers by the Allens, which could be charged to misjudgment on the part of the Davisons, but despite this the Davison team flied out at the end of the sixth, when the game was called on account of darkness, with a score of 7 to 6 in their favor.

DECATUR BEATS
RUSSELL, 6 TO 2

Decatur High took first place in the North Georgia Interscholastic Conference baseball standings with a 6-to-2 victory over Russell High Thursday afternoon on the Decatur diamond. The game was moved up from Friday, due to the annual state high school track and field meet at Athens, Georgia.

The pitching of Ridgely, who kept eight hits well scattered and the hitting of Webster, Bishop, Thomas and Morgan featured for Decatur. Bishop drove in two runs in the sixth with a home run and Dempsey hit a home run for Russell. Ridgely struck out nine batters.

Fulton High Wins
Over Marietta, 21-4.

This put the Crackers and Kelley back of what the boys call the "eight-ball" and they were no better off after scoring a run in their half of the inning and scattering a few singles by Jimmy McCaskill, who caught a bang-up game in Palmisano's place, by the way, and Captain Buster Coleman.

The Crackers moved forward ahead in the third when "Babe" Benning, the third baseman, whipped a single to right with two out, stole the bases and scored. "Singer" Signafo, the hard-hitting second-sacker, drove a single through second.

Harry Kelley is too old a trouper to be belittled by such happenings, however, and the farther he went, the better he got. The Crackers couldn't do a thing with him after the third, although he pitched out of a tough spot in the eighth, when they were a man on third and first with one out.

SMART PITCHING.
Kelley passed Hutcherson intentionally after Benning had singled a second time and Signafo had sacrificed. Then he went to work on Duke and struck him out and came out of the inning with a 2-1 lead.

The Crackers got their second run in the fourth when Easterling came out of his slump by walloping a lousy triple to deep right center and scored on McCaskill's long hoist to Hamel in center.

The score remained 3-2 until the seventh, when Chattanooga led off with a triple to left-center—almost a home run—and Kelley dropped a Texas leaguer back of second that caught Hutcherson flat-footed and Chattanooga scored the tying run.

The aforementioned rally in the 11th settled the issue, after both pitchers had battled right down to the wire in the tenth, when Hutcherson, at Poncey's lack of control, belted a home run rather than the exception on both sides, Farrell, the young Memphis first baseman, vying with Taylor for honors with several fine plays.

GOOD BALL CLUB.
The Chickasaws have a strong, well-balanced ball club with plenty of the time and Signafo's sacrifice, however, and the farther he went, the better he got. The Crackers couldn't do a thing with him after the third, although he pitched out of a tough spot in the eighth, when they were a man on third and first with one out.

PURPLES PLAY OVERSIDE NINE AT GRADY FIELD

Smithies Meet Cadets at College Park; Three Games Today.

Three games will be played this afternoon as two prep baseball leagues enter the home stretch, with the championship in both races still very much in doubt.

Boys' High, leading the Big Eight with seven wins and one loss, should get by this afternoon without serious trouble. The Purples play Riverside at Henry Grady field.

Other games in the Big Eight are Marist at Monroe and Commercial at Columbus.

An upset is not unlikely in the Riverside-Boys' High game on the Henry Grady field. The Purples won six and lost one before Jim Bagby Jr. signed a Red Sox contract, and was farmed out to Charlotte in the Piedmont league. And without Bagby, Boys' High will have tough sailing.

Riverside got away to a slow start due to the annual government inspection, but has shown a decided improvement in recent games. The Gainesville Cadets defeated Marist Tuesday and holds fifth place in the Big Eight with a chance to move into fourth place today.

Smithies Rally Beats Cadets, 13-6.

A seventh-inning rally netted seven runs and enabled Tech High to beat G. M. A., 13 to 6, Thursday afternoon on the College Park diamond. The game was moved up from today.

G. M. A. took the lead in the sixth inning and appeared well on the way to its first victory of the Big Eight schedule, but Smithies weakened in the seventh and was knocked out of the box. Burner relieved him and held the Smithies in the final two innings.

Baumgardner started for Tech High but gave way to Pellam as the Cadets hit freely in the third and sixth innings.

Marion's home run and two singles featured the hitting for Tech High. Gibson, Williams and Dillingham also hit well for the winners.

Argentine, Cochran and Corral hit best for the losers.

DeLong and Latham featured the hitting for Gainesville.

Fulton High Wins
Over Marietta, 21-4.

MARIETTA, Ga., May 2.—Fulton High continued its fine hitting and defeated Marietta, 21 to 4, here this afternoon. The game was moved up from Friday in the North Georgia Interscholastic conference schedule.

Down the Alley

The championship play-off between the Norris Candy Company and Forest Fowler Insurance team for the title of the Junior Chamber of Commerce Duckpin League was scheduled to get under way at 7:45 o'clock this evening.

Norris Candy Company won the first half and the Forest Fowler Insurance five finished on top in the second half. On average the two teams are about even, so the breaks of the game will play a big part in the determining of the winner.

The Norris five will have Jake Crouch, Phil Tenenbaum, Bill Shotanus, C. D. Guerry, C. L. Wood to do their heavy pin-spilling. The Fowler Insurance group will use Killer, Robbins, Richardson, Pearson and Fowler.

Guthman's Laundry is slated to tie up with the Independents; Ramblers play Harland's Southland Club; Ray-Lyon Company and Genuine Parts Company are scheduled in the Georgia Duckpin League.

In the Dixie Duckpin League, the leading Eastern Air Lines team ties with Five Point Shoe Repair Shop; U. S. F. S. Engineers play the Dupont Company; Eastman Kodak Company and U. S. F. S. Woodpeckers are matched in a series of well-balanced contests.

With good hopes of winning the Commercial Duckpin league pennant, the leaders will endeavor to upset their opponents in tonight's games in order to better their chance at the league title.

Aristocrat Ice Cream plays John H. Harland Company; National Oil Company plays Fulton County Club; J. M. Harrison Company and Downtown Chevrolet are matched; Cudaly Packing Company and Southern Dairies will match totals.

Davis Cupmen Plan Campaign Of De-Emphasis

PHILADELPHIA, May 2.—(AP)—America's primary plan of campaign for the coming Davis cup tennis wars, as emphasized by the newly-appointed pilot of the United States squad, is laid out by the lines that over-training is fatal.

So important does Joseph W. Wear, who returns to the position he held back in 1928, consider this factor, that he is already planning to prevent his players in this year's international play from becoming over-taxed, as has been charged against this country's teams in the past.

"That's the only comment I can make right now," he announced today.

His staff in this campaign is Charles Garland, former Davis cup player and captain, and Hillman, Dartmouth College athlete, captain and noted for his skillful conditioning of athletes. Along with them will be Hans Nusslein, powerful foreign pro, who will provide the practice opposition for the players.

About this year's team, Wear, who succeeds R. Norris Williams as captain, is considerably more realistic, but his remarks carry an optimistic air.

"Particularly do I like our doubles lineup," he said. "With Wilmer Allison and Johnny Van Ryn as one team and the California youngsters, Don Budge and Gene Maas as the other, the combination looks fine."

"Moreover, Allison and Sidney Wood are two good singles players when in form."

Present plans call for the squad to assemble at Merion Cricket Club about June 1, shortly after the American zone and interzone play with China at Mexico.

At Merion, practice on grass will be held until time for the team to sail for the foreign battles about June 15.

accorded magnificent support by the Crackers, particularly by Harry Taylor, the dashing young man at first. Hill at third base and Oana in center. Taylor came up with at least two stops and would be acclaimed as the hero of the game.

Hill flagged several hot smashes down the line and Oana romped away back in the ninth to get a fly and then held Powell on second with one of his desperate pokes.

Press figures on attendance.
While no official figures on the Yankees' home paid attendance, the press estimate showed 129,600 for the season. This is believed to be the largest attendance for the similar period last season when Babe Ruth was with the Yankees. However, Colonel Jacob Ruppert, Yankee owner, tonight doubted if this season's attendance was lower, despite Ruth's absence.

Features of early season play have been the formidable showings of the Brooklyn Dodgers and Chicago White Sox. The White Sox, tall-enders of 1934, are leading the American league in batting with an average of .298, and are second to Cleveland in the standing. Brooklyn, sixth last season, is fighting the Giants for the National lead. The Cincinnati Reds also are surprising with bang-up ball, and have turned in 13 stolen bases and 22 double plays.

Munro Elias, the statistician, called today when examining the pitchers' records. He said the pitchers are throwing in mid-season form, and their excellent work was topped by one-hitter games turned in by Blanton, Schaner and Babich in the first.

Despite fingers' form, there has been plenty of distance clouting. A total of 76 homers, 37 triples and 158 doubles were banged out in the National league, and 63 homers, 41 triples and 211 doubles in the American division.

MAJOR LEAGUES SHOW BIG GAIN IN ATTENDANCE

Brooklyn Must Be in League—They Lead All Others with 130,000.

United Press Staff Correspondent.
NEW YORK, May 2.—(UP)—The 1935 baseball season is off to a booming start, with robust attendance in games reported in most sections and the foundations laid for thrilling pennant fights in both major leagues, a United Press survey of the season's first phase, showed tonight.

While the clubs were traveling to-day—eastern American leaguers into the west and western Nationals into the east—for the year's first inter-sectional clashes, a check of the 16 big circuit cities showed that approximately 1,118,000 fans had attended the 104 games already played in home areas—a heartening increase over the first phase showing of 1934.

President Ford Frick of the National League estimated that the 489,551 attendance at 52 games in his league was an increase of between 15 and 20 per cent. The 519,400 American circuit attendance for 52 games is estimated as a smaller percentage increase.

Secretary Jim Tierney, of the New York Giants reported the paid attendance for six Polo ground games as 117,764.

"This is the largest early-season attendance in the Giants' history." And this in spite of the Giants' disappointing slump at the end of the 1934 season when they dropped the pennant in the final stages.

The Giants' average attendance at these six home games was greater than the average for any other club, although Brooklyn's Dodgers came close with 130,000 for eight games.

Cincinnati reported a healthy attendance increase with $5,547 for 10 home contests. Cleveland had a 25,000 increase over last year, and the Braves, with Babe Ruth, about 20,000 better.

Other clubs showing increases were Detroit, Pittsburgh, St. Louis Cardinals, Chicago White Sox and Washington.

Here is the chart of home-game attendance—the first phase of the 1935 season:

Jackets Open Annual Series With Bulldogs Here Today

WANTS TO FACE JOHNSON; TECH SHIFTS INFIELD

Jackets Seeking First Series Victory in Nearly 20 Years.

By Roy White.

Tech and Georgia will open their annual baseball series at 4 o'clock this afternoon on the Rose Bowl field in the first of a four-game series to determine the state college baseball championship. The second game will be played in Athens Saturday afternoon as a courtesy to Georgia's Alumni Day.

An admission of 50 cents will be charged this afternoon.

The teams resume the series next Friday afternoon at Athens and finish on the Rose Bowl field, Saturday, May 11.

It has been nearly 20 years since the Jackets have won a series from the Bulldogs, and Coach Bobby Dodd is exerting every effort possible to reach that turn in the long lane with its team.

The teams have broken even in many of the past series, but not since the 1915 and 1916 series have the Jackets won an odd game.

Tech has won five of its last six games, including a double-header from Clemson last Saturday afternoon. The excellent pitching of Carl Waits and Louis Carpenter was directly responsible for the double stinging of the Tigers.

Georgia is none too well fixed for pitchers, since the Bulldogs broke even with Oglethorpe Tuesday and Wednesday on the Athens diamond.

Georgia, with Harrison and Alf Anderson, Jordan Ennis and Henry Wagner to lead the way, present a murderers' row of hitters for any pitcher to face.

Coach Vernon Smith has not announced his hurling selection for today. It will likely depend on the warm-up this afternoon just before game time.

Carl Waits will be Tech's choice for mound duty. Carpenter has a sore arm and is not in the best of condition.

Entire Bulldog Squad Coming Here for Game.

ATHENS, Ga., May 2.—Georgia's entire baseball team of 18 players will leave here early Friday for Atlanta, where the Bulldogs play the Jackets in the opener of the annual four-game series.

The Bulldog batting order will be: Cross, third base; Ennis, left field; Alf Anderson, short; H. Anderson, first base; Grant, center field; Watson, catcher; Hartman, right field; Watkins, second base; and Johnson, pitcher.

This card, which promises plenty of action, will be free to the public, no strings attached. It is merely the promoters' way to show their appreciation for the fine crowds they have been having lately.

The first match will start at 8:15 o'clock.

In the main match, Tarzan Jordan accepted the challenge of King Kong, the much talked of Greek villain, for a no-time-limit match, and promises his friends that he will forget his clean method of wrestling and meet this foe at his own rough game.

Tony Marconi, the Italian champion, who has won many followers here with his clean wrestling, will meet John Mauldin in a one-hour match.

John Ellis and Glenn Cowan, the police grappler, will mix in a 30-minute, one-fall match.

Lon Bartell, the Jewish villain, will meet Louis La Chene, French-Canadian grappler, in a 30-minute, one-fall match.

Miss Nellie Flag Gets Grand Rush at Downs

Good Looking Filly Given Big Play by the Boys as Big Race Draws Near.

By Ralph McGill.

CHURCHILL DOWNS, LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 2.—That horse named Today from C. V. Whitney's stable remains the favorite to win the sixty-first renewal of the Kentucky Derby here Saturday, but you should hear how fast they are turning to the only lady in the race, Nellie Flag.

She is a big gal hoss, is this Nellie Flag from the Warren Wright stable. She reminds one of one of those big, raw-boned gals which hang around the house while mama and papa grow desperate because no one is coming around to ask for daughter's hand in marriage, because daughter very probably can beat them at golf and so on.

What I mean is that Nellie Flag is a big hoss, large as a colt and as fast as any one here. The boys are going for her in a big way. They went for Mata Hari, of the Dixiana Farm, in much the same manner last year, with one exception. They went early for Mata Hari and then began to shy away. But the closing rush here is for the filly. She is the daughter of American Flag and the granddaughter of Man o' War, is this filly. She has good blood and she has the speed.

But the Derby was run for 40 years before a filly won it. That was in 1915. Regret finished first not because she was a great horse but because there was not a good horse in the race. Last year there were two good fillies in the race, Mata Hari was run out at the mile, meeting the challenge of Sergeant Byrne, the big Irish horse. She finished fourth. Bozaz, Colonel E. R. Bradley's big filly, was never in the running.

NOT FOR GAL HOSSES.

So I am inclined to write out the filly. She may win breezing but if there is a real horse in the race she won't. It is a race for boy hoes and not for gal hoes. Let's get that clear.

Many of the boys are picking her to win because if she doesn't it won't hurt any at all and if she does they can put themselves on the back for a number of years as being one of the experts who picked a filly to win the Kentucky Derby and then saw it happen.

In 60 years of Derbies the favorite has won 30 times and finished second 15 times. So there is quite a lot of authority for picking Today and sticking with him. His trainer said this morning the colt was sound and ready and had met every test.

But trainers of Derby hoes, or any other hoes for that matter, are notoriously partisan. Which is all right. But their picks do not mean a great deal. Today has been winning races this spring and he is the logical selection to win.

OTHER ENTRIES.

There remain, of course, a lot of horses who can supply the winner from their number. Omaha, the William Woodward entry, for instance, is one who may win this race. And Commonwealth is another. Both the Bradley entry, is getting a good late play as do all Bradley horses. The Magic of the Lile Horse owner and his record of four victories in the Kentucky Derby always make him and his entry a sentimental favorite the last day. To add impetus to this Box thorn has turned in a great mile and a quarter, the Derby distance, running it in slightly better than two minutes and seven seconds.

The theory of the race is that the fast finishers will win and they believe that Omaha and Box thorn are two fast finishers. This is the only comfort of the boys who do not care to string along with the two favorites, Today and Nellie Flag.

They think that Omaha and Box thorn will trail for the mile and then win in the last quarter. It is as good a theory as any.

Plat Eye, Morpuck, Commonwealth and others have a chance. They are all three-year-olds and this old Derby has seen some startling upsets. There was none more remarkable than Burgoon King's victory in 1932. Burgoon King won the Derby and the Preknock, two great races, and then won more. Broker's Tip, the 1933 winner, was a maiden and never won another good race.

St. Bernard and Morpuck have had good workouts. Psychic Bid, the entry of Mrs. Dodge Sloan, whose Cavalcade won last year's is another who may be the surprise. Plat Eye has a great jockey in Silvio Council and Don Meade, who brought Broker's Tip home first in a stretch ride and fight with Carl Fisher on Head Play, is riding Box thorn. They are two of the better known jockeys in the race and they will add considerable strength to their mounts.

ROMAN SOLDIER.

Roman Soldier, with a great record, will also receive some play in the betting. He was the selection of some of the experts who follow the hoes from track to track. Indications now are the track will be at least

TIDE TRACKMEN FACE OLE MISS

UNIVERSITY, Ala., May 2.—The Alabama track team will run into its hardest competition of the season Saturday when it meets Ole Miss in Oxford. The Tide men will be fighting to keep its record of the season clear. The Bama harriers have met and defeated four conference foes to date.

Competition is expected to be very close in nearly all events. The hurdle races should bring forth excellent times. Berryhill, of Ole Miss, and Edwards, of Alabama, are both top notches.

Middle Georgia

GRiffin LOSES IN 13 INNINGS.

THOMASTON, Ga., May 2.—East Thomaston defeated Griffin in a hectic 13-inning game here Thursday afternoon, 8 to 7. It was the first extra-inning game recorded in the Middle-Georgia Textile league this season.

Bogers' fly to left field that was allowed to drop for a two-base hit, drove in the deciding run in the twelfth after Holcomb's double drove in the two tying runs earlier in the same inning. East Griffin had forged ahead in its half of the twelfth by sending over two runs. Holcomb went the full route for East Thomaston while Griffin, who started for East Griffin, was routed in the ninth.

HOGANSVILLE WINS AGAIN.

HOGANSVILLE, Ga., May 2.—Hogansville made it two straight over Silvertown here this afternoon, taking another thrilling game, 4 to 2. Manager Red Frasier's slug in the ninth drove in Brown and decided the game.

Cape limited Silvertown to seven well scattered hits while his mates were collecting 11 off Brown and Odum.

Buchner, Hogansville first baseman, hit for the circuit in the fifth. Score by innings:

BODIES OF TWO BOYS RECOVERED IN JERSEY

ELIZABETH, N. J., May 2.—(AP) The bodies of two boys, believed by police to be those of Charles Arnone, 7, and Frank Truggiano, 7, two of the three Elizabeth boys missing since last Friday night, were recovered today from the Elizabeth river.

The third boy, who vanished after an American Legion parade the three had set out to see, was Frank Truggiano's brother, Mario, 5.

BARKER, KARPIS NAMED AS BREMER KIDNAPERS

ST. PAUL, May 2.—(AP)—A statement by a confessed associate, introduced by the government today in the trial of Edward G. Bremer's alleged kidnapers, named Arthur (Doc) Barker and fugitive Alvin Karpis as two of the actual abductors.

The 17-word confession by Harold Alderton, in whose Bensenville, Ill., home, the banker was held by the gang for 21 days, was read to the jury by Federal District Attorney George Sullivan.

It linked with the crime in addition to Barker, a defendant and Karpis, current Public Enemy No. 1, Byron Bolton who pleaded guilty when the trial opened April 15; Elmer Farmer, Bensenville tavern keeper, a defendant; William Weaver and Harry Campbell, both at large, and Fred Goetz, alias George Ziegler, killed by gangsters in Chicago after the Bremer kidnapping.

Before the statement was introduced, Wynona Nurdette, 21-year-old "moll" whose associations with the alleged kidnapers resulted in a sentence to Milan, Mich., prison farm, testified for the government that several of the accused left their usual St. Paul haunts on January 17, 1934, the day of the abduction.

Most of the 22 persons indicted for the crime, including the 10 on trial, were named at one time or another during her testimony.
